Mobs' Grievances.

SEOUL, Korea, April 19 (AP) — Violent demonstrations in South Korea's major cities today resulted in the death and wounding of scores of persons, including several policemen.

Rhee called out the army, clamped down martial law and imposed local censorship. The rioting raged into the night in defiance of the government's moves.

The death toll continued to climb. Newspapers checking hospitals said they counted 81 killed and more than 300 wounded in Seoul alone. The wounded included two Americans.

The death toll appeared sure to go higher in the outbreaks protesting against government strong-arm methods in last month's election.

The riots brought an unusual expression of concern from the United States for the demonstrators' grievances. The United States fought a three-year war in Korea to keep the Communists from capturing the entire country.

Envoy Calls on Rhee.
United States Ambassador Walter P. McCaughy paid a personal call tonight on President Rhee. The embassy said the ambassador sought to "review developments and express his concern that measures adopted to maintain law and order would take into account basic causes and grievances behind the disorders."

This marked the first time the United States Government had publicly acknowledged possible merit in the demonstrators' charges. Privately United States officials had been concerned ever since the election over seeming use of police state methods.

Sporadic demonstrations have flared since the March 15 balloting to underscore opposition charges of stuffing ballot boxes, restricting opposition meetings and police brutality. Many of the demonstrators were students, and this pattern of youthful protest continued.

Worst Rioting So Far.
Today's was the worst so far. Raging during the day in Pusan, Taegu, Taejeon, Kwangju and this capital, the rioting amounted to virtual revolutionary upheaval. Those five cities were put under martial law.

The martial law commander, Lt. Gen. Song Yo-chang, army chief of staff, appealed for order. He reminded citizens that "Communist troops are poised in the north waiting anxiously for a return to strife."

Censorship was imposed on Korean newspapers and other publications in an obvious move by the government to keep news of the rioting from sparking additional demonstrations.

NEGROES IGNORE CALL FOR WEEK'S WORK BOYCOTT IN SOUTH AFRICA

Stream Back to Jobs Without Major Violence, But Troops Guard Against Possible Retaliation.

JOHANNESBURG, April 19 (AP)—The one-week strike called by the outlawed African National Congress to protest against the white government's strict racial laws failed to achieve its aim today.

Police in all major cities of South Africa reported that Negroes showed up in normal numbers and without hindrance by alleged intimidators.

No major violence was reported. The only police action announced at noon was a raid on an African settlement near the Indian ocean city of Port Elizabeth, where police rounded up "undesirables," questioned 200 Negroes and detained many of them.

In Johannesburg, South Africa's largest city, buses and trains from Negro settlements were crowded with workers.

Reports from Capetown, Durban and elsewhere said the situation was quiet there also and Negroes were streaming to work.

Troops were standing by at such trouble spots as the Nyanga and Langa townships near Cape-town and Cato Manor near Durban.

Powerful police and white civilian defense forces, supported by soldiers in armored cars, patrolled Negro settlements surrounding Johannesburg on the lookout for agitators who might try to prevent Negroes from going to work and to keep them from retaliating when the workers returned home tonight.

The work stoppage called by the outlawed African National Congress started yesterday. But the day was a national Easter holiday, and this postponed the real test of the strike call until today. Most of those scheduled to work yesterday apparently were on the job.

The government had threatened Negroes with the loss of their jobs or banishment to native reserves in the interior if they heeded the stay-at-home call.

The aim of the work stoppage was to force the government to ease its stern segregation laws and to gain freedom for jailed Negro leaders. The government broke a previous work boycott by widespread raids in the Negro settlements and wholesale arrests.

Johannesburg and its surrounding Negro townships were flooded over the long holiday weekend with pamphlets calling on Negro workers to stay at home. The first "underground" newspaper was distributed free yesterday by an organization calling itself the Socialist League of Africa, previously unheard of in South Africa.

The four-page mimeographed paper, Spark, urged non-whites to continue the struggle against the "capitalist government."

HENNINGS ASKS PRESIDENT FOR FLOOD AID IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON, April 19—Senator Thomas C. Hennings (Dem., Mo.), urged President Eisenhower yesterday to make federal flood aid available to stricken areas in Missouri.

In a telegram to the President, Hennings noted that property damage caused by the recent floods in Missouri has been estimated at about $10,000,000 and that this figure is likely to increase.

Hennings supported Gov. James T. Blair's recent request for federal flood assistance. The Governor did not ask for a specific amount, pending completion of surveys of the damage. Hennings asked Mr. Eisenhower to "expedite" the federal aid.

Violence in South Korean Capital

ditional violence. No mention was made of censorship of outgoing dispatches.

One of the injured Americans was James Wilcox, an export-import man from Quincy, Mass., who suffered two serious chest wounds as he watched the rioting from the roof of his nine-story hotel. Hugh Blaney of New York City, a civilian employee of the United States Army, was hit by a rock. He was not hurt seriously.

Leaves Canceled.

All leaves and passes were canceled for the 50,000 American troops in Korea. The thousands of United States soldiers in the Seoul area were ordered to keep to their barracks.

The martial law commander announced that an infantry division spearheaded by a tank company had arrived in the city. This is what happened in Seoul:

Thousands of students came marching down the wide Central avenue of Seoul leading to Rhee's mansion. They were from colleges and universities, junior and senior high schools.

The wide boulevard was clogged with the somber black of their school uniforms.

Seven hundred yards from the President's mansion, the students halted. Thirty yards in front of them was a row of armed and helmeted police. The police had one fire truck, fire hoses and tear gas bombs ready to be hurled at the advancing column.

More and more students poured into the street. Thousands lined the sidewalks and jammed the open area in front of Korea's old Capitol, burned out and still unreconstructed from the Korean war.

Suddenly there were shots. Police were firing blanks and tear gas shells.

The students surged forward, shouting and throwing rocks. The wind blew tear gas back over the police lines. The students continued up the road leading to Rhee's mansion.

Streams of water drenched the students but still they came on. Their barrage of stones forced the firemen to retreat, too. Rocks smashed through windows of two government ministries behind the Capitol. Cars were overturned.

The crowd approached the gate of the President's hilltop home. A hundred yards away 500 university students formed into solid ranks and dashed toward a barbed wire barricade. Up and over they swarmed, capturing four fire trucks.

Suddenly the rifles came up. A volley crashed. Volley after volley followed. Many students fell. Tear gas shells plopped down among the wounded. Some were lobbed over the students' heads to take advantage of the wind, blowing it back over their retreating, broken ranks.

Defying the strict military rule, armed demonstrators at nightfall attacked two police sentry boxes in the northeastern sector of Seoul. Three policemen were reported killed and many others wounded.

Men carrying rifles roamed Seoul's near-deserted streets, defying the nighttime curfew.

(Outside the Korean government's Anti-Communist Center, the mob tried but failed to topple a statue of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United Press International said.)

(The rioters seized streetcars, buses, fire engines, taxis and private cars, beating anyone who protested, and raced them through the streets.)

The police were attempting to clear the streets of people block by block, firing warning shots into the air.

Three buildings were on fire: That of the pro-Government newspaper Seoul Shinmoon, the headquarters of an army counter-intelligence corps and the anti-Communist and propaganda gallery. Persons living near the newspaper were fleeing from their homes.

Thousands clashed with armed police in Pusan, South Korea's major port, and three demonstrators were reported killed and more than 10 injured. Adults joined 2000 demonstrating high school students, and reports said the crowd swelled to 50,000. About 10,000 students and townspeople attacked government offices and private houses in Kwangju, 200 miles south of Seoul. Police vainly tried to break up the attacks by firing warning shots at the demonstrators followed by tear gas shells and streams of water from fire-hoses.

The demonstrators, some of whom had called for the resignation of Rhee, won one victory—the resignation of Seoul Mayor Kim Hung-soon.

Other resignations of government and city authorities were expected. Most observers considered out of the question the resignation of Rhee himself, still revered by millions of Koreans as a national hero and the "George Washington" of the nation.

ENVOY'S KOREAN VIEWS BACKED UP BY STATE DEPT.

Ambassador Deplores Violence, Urges Justifiable Grievances Be Settled.

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The State Department said today it "fully concurs" with a statement issued in Seoul by United States ambassador Walter P. McCaughy deploring violence and urging the settlement of "justifiable grievances."

Press officer Lincoln White was asked at his noon news conference about the disturbances in Korea and McCaughy's virtually unprecedented comment on the host country's domestic affairs.

The department, White said, has no intention of listing the grievances the Ambassador mentioned in his statement. But he did say they include "acts of violence and irregularities which marked the recent elections in Korea."

White declined to discuss the question whether it was an unusual step for McCaughy to issue his statement on domestic events. But he said "unique relations" between the two countries, with thousands of Americans in the United Nations forces in Korea, explain why the diplomat found it necessary to make his statement.

The official adoption of that statement came a few hours after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter had invited Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang to call on him, obviously for a discussion of events in his homeland.

You Chan Yang said in an interview he is sure Communist agents are inciting demonstrators in Korea.

"They use the same tactics in Korea as in other parts of the world," the ambassador said. "The agents are exciting young students to destroy everything that is anti-Communist."

In advance of his meeting with Herter, Yang said he is confident order will be restored soon. President Syngman Rhee has imposed martial law and local censorship to cope with demonstrations against his regime.

There was no immediate change, however, in plans for President Eisenhower to make a one-day visit to Korea June 22 on his Russian-Asiatic travels. Authorities here said it is too early to speculate on what effect

Physicist Says Underground Atom Test Couldn't Be Traced

Violator Could Explode Small Device With Impunity, Dr. Harold Brown Tells Joint Hearing.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19 — A determined violator could explode small underground nuclear tests with "complete impunity" under any known detection system, a congressional inquiry was told today.

Dr. Harold Brown, a physicist at the Atomic Energy Commission's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at Livermore, Calif., was lead-off witness in three days of hearings before two subcommittees of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

Future witnesses will include Dr. Edward Teller, director of the Lawrence Laboratory, and one of the leading advocates of a resumption of nuclear weapons tests by the United States.

Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, chairman of the Radiation subcommittee, and Representative Melvin Price (Dem.) of East St. Louis are presiding jointly at the hearings.

Probability Nearly Zero.

Brown was questioned by Senators Bourke B. Hickenlooper (Rep.), Iowa, and Albert Gore (Dem.) of Tennessee.

Hickenlooper asked: "Would you say the probability of establishing a violation is almost zero?"

Brown replied that this was hard to put in quantitative terms and was a subject of much disagreement among scientists. But he added that he thought the probability "can be made very close to zero."

"Wouldn't you say the probability of locating almost any size of nuclear explosion, where there was determined effort to conceal it, and to prove it with methods presently available or that will become available in the reasonable future, is practically nil?" Hickenlooper asked.

"It is very small and for practical purposes quite close to zero," Brown replied.

Brown raised the question, without answering it, of how much information can be gained about nuclear weapons through concealed tests.

Under further questioning, he said: "There will always be some level below which a violator can test with complete impunity. One kiloton is well within that limit for any system that I can propose."

One kiloton has a force of 1000 tons of TNT. The latest United States treaty proposal outlaws underground tests above 4.75 points on the earthquake scale, which equals about 19 kilotons in certain circumstances.

Gore brought out that a network of detection stations probably would locate the spot of an underground test no closer than 100 to 400 square miles.

Could Study Ground.

"Then to bring about an exact location, you would have to search by on-the-spot methods?" Gore asked.

Brown explained that an inspection team then would have to look for broken up surface areas or signs of unusual activity. The team also could use chemical explosives to probe for disturbed areas underneath the ground.

In reply to a question from Price, the witness said his figure of 100 to 400 square miles was based on scientific conclusions reached at Geneva in the summer of 1958 and did not take into account improvements since then or difficulties unforeseen then.

The second witness, Dr. Wolfgang K. H. Panofsky, director of the Stanford University high energy physics laboratory, discussed the technical talks at Geneva last November and December, which ended in a dispute between Russian and American scientists.

Wayne Hawks, acting press secretary at Mr. Eisenhower's vacation headquarters, was asked whether the President is getting briefings on the situation.

As to whether Mr. Eisenhower might have to consider canceling his Korean visit, Hawks said, "I'm not going to comment on that now."

U.S. INDICTS 19, CHARGES MAFIA STOCK SWINDLE

3 Firms Also Accused in U. S. - Canadian Scheme Involving Millions.

CLEVELAND, April 19 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted two corporations and 19 individuals—all from New York, New Jersey, California and Canada—in an alleged stock swindle involving millions of dollars.

The scheme was organized by the Mafia in a new move into the field of securities operations, according to United States Attorney Russell E. Ake and his assistant, William J. O'Neill. The Mafia is the name given to an underworld racket organization, traced to the Black Hand society of Sicily.

The two attorneys said three men master-minded the operation—Arthur Tortorello, Louis Michael DeFilippo, and Vito Palmeri, all of Brooklyn.

The two corporations named in the 35-page indictment handed to United States Judge Charles J. McNamee were: Lincoln Securities Corp., New York, and Shoreland Mines, Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

The other 16 defendants were termed "dynamiters"—high-pressure salesmen who used mail or phone to take orders and persuade customers to buy certain stocks.

The indictment charges a New York group obtained control of the Canadian mine and New York securities firm and used both to swindle customers.

The indictment further alleges that they obtained stock of Shoreland Mines at 16 cents a share and sold it from April to August 1958 for prices ranging from 95 cents to $2 a share.

Individuals indicted were these New Yorkers:

Stanley Ira Younger, Murray Taylor, Alvin Galperin, Lester Ober, Michael Kanter, Jerry Kozman, Leo Ross, Joseph Caplan, Allen J. Soltz, Harry Barlow and David Witky.

Others indicted were: Joseph Rosen, Kearney, N.J.; George A. Pally, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Martin Teller, Hollywood, Calif.; Sam Freeman, Downsview, Ont., and Lillian (Vicki) Leinen, Montreal, Que.

Four violations are charged: sale of unregistered stock under the Securities and Exchange Act; false representation in the sale of said stock; using the mails and interstate instruments to defraud; and a conspiracy to engage in the three named offenses.

This may surprise some of you, but you have every right to expect hot water when you turn on the "H" faucet. Not "T" (for tepid), not "S" (for soupy) but "H" (for hot). With a Gas water heater, you get hot water. Right now. Lots of it. And here's why: GAS is fast-flame fast. In a water heater, GAS replaces the hot water you use with more hot water—instantaneously. 'ILLEGAL SPOT ZONING' CHARGED IN SUIT AGAINST BOHRER'S BILL Action Filed After County Council Overruled Plan Commission on Reducing Size of Lots.

St. Louis County Councilman George E. Bohrer's bill to rezone a 53.6-acre tract at Eddie and Park and Sappington roads was termed "illegal spot zoning" in a suit filed by a nearby resident, county circuit court records showed today.

Walter F. Timm, an attorney living at 9541 Donalds Court, filed the suit Feb. 24 after the County Council overruled the County Planning Commission. The commission had recommended denial of an application to rezone the tract from lots of 20,000 square feet to 7500 square feet.

The council, in approving Bohrer's bill last Dec. 24, fixed some lot sizes in the area at 7500 square feet and others at 10,000 square feet.

Rezoning of the tract to 7500-square-foot lots was opposed by the city of Crestwood, whose southern city limits are at Eddie and Park road, by the Lindbergh School District and by several nearby residents.

Views of Opponents. Mayor Oliver J. Wilkins of Crestwood told the planning commission, at a public hearing last Aug. 18, that Crestwood would not oppose rezoning to 10,000 square feet for the tract.

Noah E. Gray, Lindbergh school superintendent, said the school district opposed 7500-square-foot lots because they would provide an insufficient tax base for the school system.

Other residents opposing the rezoning said the smaller lots would be inconsistent with other residential developments in the area.

Timm in his petition asked that the rezoning ordinance be declared void and the council be enjoined from enforcing it.

He alleged the council had stated no reason for the rezoning, although a written protest had been filed by the city of Crestwood.

At Contractors' Request. Bohrer said today he sponsored the measure at the request of the Kuni-Jacobsmeyer Co., contractors, 8015 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton. He said his bill modified the original rezoning application by providing some 10,000-square-foot lots to meet objections to the smaller-sized lots.

Bohrer, a real estate dealer, admitted that he sponsored an other rezoning ordinance at the request of a client, Fred Lehmkuhl. The area concerned is a 4.08 acre tract south of Gravois near Emil avenue, which the council rezoned to light industrial acreage, from 20,000-square-foot one-family lots and business lots.

The rezoning was in the face of an adverse recommendation by the planning commission and over bitter protests of nearby property owners.

Bohrer said he is the real estate agent for only that part of the Lehmkuhl property fronting on Gravois, and not for the tract rezoned. He said he saw no impropriety in sponsoring the legislation for his client.

Lehmkuhl, in his application for the rezoning, told the commission he wanted to use the area behind the Gravois frontage for storing road building and excavating equipment.

A petition with 78 signatures of nearby residents "unilaterally opposed" to the rezoning was filed with the commission. One of the objectors, Harry J. Links, told the commission that spot-zoning of the tract would depreciate values of 39 homes, ranging in value from $25,000 to $40,000, in the nearby Westminster subdivision.

A letter from the Sappington Improvement Association said the tract as rezoned, would be "the cancer spot of our community."

The bill was passed last March 9 and signed into law a week later by County Supervisor James H. McNary over the protests of the nearby property owners.

The County Council's liaison committee on planning and zoning met with planning commission officials today. Afterwards, Dunne issued a statement in which he said it was the consensus of those at the meeting "that a close relationship between the liaison committee and the planning commission would result in better planning and development of St. Louis county."

Aldermen Get Bill to Set Up 5 Zones for Parking Meters

A bill to establish five zones for parking meters and fees to be charged in each zone was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today as it met to begin a new session.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker urged the aldermen to enact the measure quickly because the present parking meter ordinance was ruled invalid last week by the Missouri Supreme Court. The court said the ordinance was an illegal delegation of legislative authority to the Parking Meter Commission.

Zone One under the bill would require 5 cents for each half-hour of parking, with a maximum permitted of one hour. The zone would be bounded by the north side of Delmar boulevard, south side of Market street, east side of Third street and West side of Twelfth boulevard.

12-Minute Limit. Zone Two fees would be 1 cent for 12 minutes, with a maximum of 12 minutes. The zone would include portions of the following streets: east side of Fifteenth street between Market and Clark street, west side of Seventeenth street between Market and Clark street and the south side of Market between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets.

In Zone Three, the fee would be 5 cents for one-half hour, with a maximum of two hours. It would include these streets: north side of Cole street, south side of Spruce street, east side of Third, west side of Twelfth, all exclusive of any sections in Zone One; north side of Washington avenue, south side of Spruce, east side of Twelfth and west side of Grand boulevard, all exclusive of any portions of Zone Two; north side of Olive street, east side of Grand, west side of Spring, both sides of Lucas between Grand and Theresa avenue and both sides of Theresa between Delmar and Washington.

Two-Hour Maximum. The Zone Four fee would be 5 cents an hour, with a maximum of two hours. It would include the north side of Franklin avenue, north side of Washington, west side of Twelfth and west side of Twentieth, exclusive of the north side of Washington in Zone Three. It also would include the following: north side of Lindell boulevard, south side of Chouteau avenue, east side of Grand and west side of Kingshighway.

Zone Five, with a fee of 1 cent for 12 minutes, and a maximum of two hours, would include all streets outside of Zones One through Four where meters are now installed or will be installed under criteria established by the ordinance. In all zones, the meters would be operative from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily except Sunday.

A Parking Meter Commission consisting of the City Treasurer as chairman, and the Commissioner of Streets and the chairman of the aldermanic traffic committee as members, would be established.

Criteria for Meters. Meters would be established by the Parking Meter Commission whenever these criteria are found: an F-local business zone, specified traffic volume, not more than 10 per cent of residential occupancy on the first floor of abutting structures, a proven need of time-limited parking and absence of any adverse effect on the public safety and convenience.

In his message to the aldermen, Mayor Tucker announced attempts to enact an ordinance prohibiting discrimination in places of public accommodation and strengthening St. Louis fair employment practice ordinances would be renewed. He said both bills, previously defeated, were needed for a forward-looking St. Louis.

Other Proposals. Among new legislative proposals listed by the Mayor were establishment of minimum standards of maintenance of commercial buildings; a bill to regulate parking lots, and another to strengthen the city's authority to require property owners, to keep their sidewalks in good condition.

The Mayor also urged reconsideration and prompt passage of bills to permit the widening of the Express Highway and to establish the post of off-street parking commissioner. Both proposals have been before the aldermen in previous sessions.

In the field of human relations, Mayor Tucker said the bill to prohibit racial discrimination in places of public accommodation had long had the city administration's support. The bill was last defeated Jan. 22 by a vote of 11 for and 17 against.

The fair employment practices amendment, which would have barred for two years awarding of a city contract to any employer found guilty of discrimination in hiring, was defeated by one vote at the last session.

"It seems clear to me that if the economic opportunity of one large portion of the community is restricted, then an additional burden is placed on the whole community," Mayor Tucker told the aldermen. "Simple justice and plain economic common sense argue for the passage of this bill."

In renewing his plea for establishment of a paid off-street parking commissioner, the Mayor said that off-street parking facilities planned and under way required the administrative attention of a full-time official.

Mayor Tucker said he would announce soon his recommendation for a choice of two redevelopment plans for the northern half of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial. The final choice must be made by the aldermen.

Other aldermanic action will be required if the City Plan Commission's proposal for redevelopment of the downtown section is to be carried out, the Mayor noted.

Better Civic Housekeeping. He said much progress in city renewal could be accomplished by improved levels of civic housekeeping. He then proposed legislation providing for minimum standards of maintenance for commercial buildings.

A precedent for such legislation exists in the minimum housing standards ordinance, he said. "Surely commercial blight should not be allowed to expand."

RESCUERS FREE MAN BURIED BY TRENCH CAVE-IN

Roy C. Reese, 29-year-old laborer, was rescued by fellow workmen and firemen from a sewer trench in which he was buried by a cave-in of earth at a Glendale subdivision yesterday.

Reese, shoring up the sides of a 12-foot deep trench, was covered with earth when the sides of the trench caved in. He was caught in a standing position by loose earth, which covered his head.

Workmen, digging cautiously, uncovered Reese's head after 14 minutes. He was conscious, but his face was blue, rescuers said. Glendale firemen applied an inhalator during the half-hour required to free the trapped man. He was treated at St. Louis County Hospital for contusions and oxygen deficiency and released.

Reese lives at 4245 DeTonty street. The cave-in occurred in a subdivision development at 1100 North Berry road.

In areas where buildings may be rehabilitated and conserved," he declared.

He advocated an ordinance regulating parking lots and prescribing minimum standards of maintenance and appearance.

In support of his plea for strengthening the city's right to require property owners to keep their sidewalks in good condition, the Mayor said the city annually pays large sums to persons injured in falls on defective sidewalks.

Streets are littered with rubbish from improperly loaded private collection trucks, the Mayor said. An ordinance is required to set up adequate standards for operation of these trucks, he said.

Rooming House Bill. In another area, the Mayor said enforcement of the rooming house ordinance could be improved by legislation exempting tenants of such houses from liability to prosecution.

"After all, the operator of the illegal rooming house should bear the real responsibility for his violations," he said. "If the tenants are relieved of liability, the enforcing authorities would be far more able to secure evidence of violations from the tenants."

He also promised that a completely new and revised building code would be available for introduction this session.

The Mayor complimented the board on its accomplishments during its last session, which, he said, demonstrated "the hallmarks of a responsible legislative body."

SAARINEN CALLS FOR BOULEVARD ON RIVERFRONT

Consulting Architect Favors Tree-Lined Road at Side of Memorial Park.

A tree-lined boulevard to be built on the Mississippi river side of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial park was recommended today by Eero Saarinen, consulting architect for the project.

Saarinen, in a meeting in the office of Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, proposed that the boulevard be four lanes wide and have walkways on both sides. The road would be a "transitional area" between commercial and esthetic aspects of the riverfront area, he said.

The meeting was attended by city officials, officers of the National Park Service and members of Saarinen's staff. A further meeting was to be held with representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers.

The boulevard would be on the levee, and would be flooded when severe floods occur on the Mississippi. It would extend from Washington avenue to Poplar street.

The group took up a plan for establishing parking facilities to be owned and operated by the city near Washington at the west end of the park, but came to no conclusion. Saarinen said his firm was awaiting a report on the economic feasibility of the project.

Other matters discussed were landscaping of the area immediately east of the present elevated railroad tracks, which will be torn down; possible realignment of Washington and problems growing out of changes at Poplar.

The approach to a new free bridge, to be built by the Federal Government, would be at the eastern end of Poplar. The approach then would be linked with the Daniel Boone Expressway.

The Park Service hopes to obtain a $4,603,125 federal appropriation for the next fiscal year to go ahead with construction. A railroad tunnel is now under construction, and a 619-foot stainless steel arch and a museum will be built.

Among those attending today's meeting, in addition to Saarinen, were Mayor Tucker; George B. Hartog Jr., memorial superintendent; George F. Bagley, regional chief of operations for the Park Service; Nash Castro, Park Service regional chief; Edward S. Zimmer, chief of the Park Service's eastern office, division of design and construction; Frank Kriz, president of the St. Louis Board of Public Service, and City Counselor Thomas Neenan.

35-YEAR PRISON TERM IN HOLDUP AND SHOOTING

Ivan L. Deckard Pleads Guilty in Robbery in Which 2 Policemen Were Shot.

Ivan L. Deckard was sentenced to 35 years in prison today when he pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Robert G. J. Hoester at Clayton to three charges growing out of a University City drug store holdup.

In the holdup at Irwin's Drug Store, 6601 Olive boulevard, last May 17, Deckard and two police officers were wounded in an exchange of shots and Deckard's companion, Herbert J. Lorts, was killed.

Deckard pleaded guilty of robbery and to two charges of assault with intent to kill in the wounding of University City detectives Raymond Bruno and Stanley Topper. The officers have recovered.

Judge Hoester imposed 35-year sentences on each of the charges, but provided that they run concurrently. The 35-year terms also will be concurrent with sentences imposed on Deckard in St. Louis last year.

Deckard, a former convict, received a seven-year sentence in the court of Circuit Judge William E. Buder Aug. 5 and 25 years in Circuit Judge John C. Casey's court Oct. 7. Both sentences were for armed robbery.

The 31-year-old prisoner was brought to Clayton from the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City for his court appearance today.

His 35-year sentences were recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney's office. He was said to have been co-operative with police, and helpful in clearing up four armed robberies and two burglaries.

Deckard is one of two convicted robbers who have provided leads to police in the unsolved murder of James Stanley Bullock. Bullock was shot to death in front of City Art Museum Dec. 17, 1958. Police are checking the leads.

AIR CARGO BUILDING CONTRACTS ARE LET

First contracts for construction of a $300,000 air cargo building at Lambert-St. Louis Field were awarded today by the Board of Public Service.

The contracts are for site selection and design of the building. The proposed one-story structure will be located east of the Terminal building near the Trans-World Airlines hangar and will provide greatly expanded facilities for handling air freight and air express.

Horne & Shiffrin, an engineering firm, was granted a contract for $14,800 to prepare a topographical survey of possible sites for the building. The firm also will prepare drawings and specifications for pavements and water mains for fire protection.

The architectural firm of P. John Horner and Associates was awarded a contract for $11,700 to design the cargo building and supervise construction.

Walter T. Malloy, director of public utilities, said the city is hopeful that the building will be completed and occupied by the end of this year. The new building will be about 350 feet long and 60 feet wide. A loading dock will run the length of the building.

Considerable parking space will be available on one side as well as space for trucks to maneuver, Malloy said. The present air cargo building located just east of the terminal will remain in use for the time being, Malloy said.

Offices as well as warehouse space will be located in the building. Because of the shortage of space in the present building, air express offices of Braniff, Eastern and Delta Airlines now are in the terminal building.

KILLS WIFE WHEN SHE REFUSES TO RETURN TO HIM

Husband Tells Police He Served Lunch to Children After Shooting in Home.

Nelson E. Cunningham, a punch press operator, shot and killed his estranged wife yesterday after she refused to return to him, he told police.

Cunningham, 38 years old, handed a revolver to an officer at Carondelet district police station at 3:20 p.m. and said he had shot his wife, Dorothy, 32 years old, five hours earlier at her home, 2235 Oregon avenue. Police forced a door and found Mrs. Cunningham's body on a daybed in the living room. She had been shot three times in the chest.

Notes left in the house by Cunningham stated he shot his wife at 10:27 a.m., and intended to kill himself. The notes blamed interference by relatives for the separation. Cunningham turned over two razor blades to police, with the explanation he had intended cutting his wrists, "but I lost my nerve."

The Cunninghams were married three years ago and separated April 1, when he moved to the home of his mother, at 2239 Oregon. Yesterday morning Cunningham went to his wife's home to repair a fence, he said. He told police he suggested a reconciliation. He quoted his wife as saying she was willing, but several members of her family objected to him.

Cunningham said he went home, obtained a revolver and then returned to his wife's home. He shot her, he said, after she again rejected his pleas for a reconciliation.

At noon Cunningham said he served lunch to his wife's two children by a prior marriage. The children, Barbara Kilburn, 10 years old, and Michael, 8, did not see their mother's body, and returned to school. They later were taken to the home of an uncle.

After failing to carry out his plan to kill himself, Cunningham said, he went home and told his mother about the killing. She telephoned another son, Claude Cunningham, 6831 Idaho avenue, who accompanied his brother to the police station. The revolver Cunningham surrendered contained three discharged shells and two cartridges.

A murder warrant was issued against Cunningham last night by the circuit attorney's office.

House Committee Clears Way For Final Civil Rights Vote

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) —The way was cleared today for final congressional action on civil rights legislation Thursday.

The House Rules Committee voted 8 to 4 to send to the House a resolution accepting Senate changes in the House bill.

Adoption of this resolution, generally expected in view of previous civil rights votes in the House, would send the legislation to President Eisenhower.

Chairman Howard W. Smith (Dem.), Virginia, told reporters he expected action to be completed Thursday. Smith has been a leader of the Southern opposition to new civil rights legislation.

Southern Democrats on the Rules Committee abandoned their fight in the face of apparently unbeatable odds. They originally succeeded in bottling up the House bill for six months, and were ready to fight a delaying action if the Senate had amended the measure materially.

The Senate changes were viewed by Southerners as relatively mild. Major provisions of the bill as passed by the Senate:

1. Federal courts could appoint referees to insure voting by Negroes. The referees could register voters who met state voting requirements, after hearings arranged by the courts. The House bill did not provide for hearing arrangements to be made by the courts.

2. Voting records in federal elections would have to be preserved for at least 22 months. The House required preservation of records for 24 months.

3. Attempts to obstruct any federal court orders would be punishable by a fine up to $1000 and imprisonment for one year. The House version limited the penalties to obstruction of school integration rulings.

4. The Government would have authority to provide schooling for children of service men in areas where integration orders closed public schools. The House measure provided authority for the Government to take over local schools built with federal assistance when the schools were closed by integration.

5. Crossing a state line to avoid prosecution for bombings or possession of explosives for use in bombings would be a federal crime, as would false bombing threats and aiding in transportation of explosives for bombings. The House bill did not apply to persons who helped transport explosives for bombings.

Prescott Bush (Rep.), Connecticut, by David W. Kendall, special counsel to the President, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Statement by Bush.

Bush issued a statement which said in part: "The first thing I heard of Connole's failure of reappointment to the Federal Power Commission came to me when presidential assistant David Kendall called me on the telephone and told me that Connole would not be reappointed, that he had already so advised Connole and that the decision was final."

Bush's administrative assistant, David S. Clarke, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that this information was relayed in a telephone call from Kendall to the Senator Jan. 15. Bush was in Hartford, Conn., at the time.

Clarke said he did not know what reason Kendall gave, but it was considered likely that the White House may be seeking to quiet Democratic protests over the FPC's conduct by the appointment of a Democrat to the commission.

The law specifies that no more than three of the five members of the FPC may be of the same political party. There are now three Republicans on the commission, so that any future appointments by the Eisenhower Administration must be either Democrats or independents.

Kendall, who is vacationing in Delray Beach, Fla., could not be reached for comment.

Connole's Comment.

Connole declined to discuss the issue beyond saying: "Whether I am reappointed or not is a matter between the White House and Senator Bush."

It was learned, however, that members of regulatory commissions in six New England states have urged Mr. Eisenhower to reappoint Connole. A letter to this effect was sent to the President March 23 by the New England Conference of Public Utilities Commissioners.

It said Connole was "the most pre-eminently qualified person in New England in the field of regulation," and it added that he should receive another term "out of concern for the consumers of this nation."

"Forthright and vigorous stands such as Mr. Connole has taken," the letter continued, "do more than anything else to give the FPC stature... when a possible nominee possesses the expertise, the integrity and the self-confidence to resist intimidation, surely he deserves a chance to serve a new term."

Pressure Reported.

Electrical World, a trade publication, declared last week:

"Natural gas producers are creating pressure on the Administration to avoid reappointment of Federal Power Commissioner William R. Connole. It remains to be seen whether business interests can do to the politicians what they're not supposed to be able to do to the FPC itself."

One of Connole's most important dissenting opinions came in the Catco natural gas case. Democrats in Congress have pointed to this proceeding as illustrating the need for consumer interests to be represented on the FPC.

In September 1956 a combine known as Catco applied to the FPC for a certificate to sell natural gas from submerged fields in the Gulf of Mexico off the coast of Louisiana. The proposal involved the largest amount of natural gas ever sold at one time.

The combine was composed of the Cities Service Production Co., the Atlantic Refining Co., the Tidewater Oil Co. and the Continental Oil Co. The gas was to be sold to the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. of Houston, Tex., a pipeline firm.

In Recent Disclosures.

Tennessee Gas Transmission figured in recent disclosures of private "ex parte" contacts between FPC members and company representatives.

Thomas G. (Tommy) the Cork Corcoran, an attorney for Tennessee Gas talked privately with three FPC commissioners, including Connole and FPC chairman Jerome K. Kuykendall, about a pending pipeline case involving a subsidiary of Tennessee Gas.

The Catco combine proposed to sell gas to the pipeline firm for 22.4 cents a thousand cubic feet, with a 2-cent increase in the price every four years. Altogether, one and three-quarter trillion cubic feet of natural gas was involved.

The highest price that Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. had paid previously for gas from the same area was 17.5 cents a thousand cubic feet.

On April 22, 1957, the FPC issued a temporary certificate permitting the sale of the gas but remanding the case to an examiner to determine what the initial rate should be.

The commission said it was "abundantly evident that in the public interest this crucial sale should not be permanently certified unless the rate level has been shown to be in the public interest."

Catco moved to modify this order, saying that economic factors made it necessary for the combine to have definite assurances of a 22.4-cent rate and that otherwise it would not go through with the sale.

On May 20, 1957, the FPC issued a second order setting a rate of 18 cents, but permitting the combine to apply for an increase to 22.4 cents the day after it began selling gas to Tennessee Gas Transmission.

Normally, such rate increases can not be put into effect, under FPC regulations, until five months after the application for an increase is filed.

Catco, however, said it still was not satisfied, and a rehearing was held in which the combine pressed for an FPC order with no conditions on the initial price of 22.4 cents.

On June 24, 1957, the FPC issued a third, permanent certificate agreeing to this. Connole dissented from this decision, but lost 4 to 1.

Court Backs Connole.

The case was taken to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. In a decision on June 30, 1958, the court agreed with Connole, saying:

"It was only after the threat of withholding the gas from the interstate market that the commission retreated from its previous position and granted the certificates without rate conditions."

"Impressed with this threat, the commission issued its order of June 24, 1957, in which it granted permanent certificates... to the Catco applicants without any conditions affecting the initial price of 22.4 cents."

On June 22, 1959, the Supreme Court upheld the appeals court's decision, also in effect agreeing with Connole. The unanimous decision was written by Associate Justice Tom C. Clark of Texas.

Setting a 'Floor.'

The court noted that enormous reserves of natural gas were involved in the Catco deal and said that whatever price was set would in effect become the "floor" for future prices on gas from these fields.

Unless controlled, Clark said in his decision, the price could result in "exploitation at the expense of the consumer."

The same argument had been advanced by Connole in his dissent from the FPC order. He pointed out that the Catco combine had not made a case for the higher rate, but instead wanted the FPC to approve it without justification.

Connole noted that the two earlier FPC orders had said that no evidence had been presented to justify the higher price, which eventually would be passed along to the consumer.

Transit

construction of 42 miles of grade-separated bus roadways.

"The best legal advice available to me makes it quite clear that public funds could not be used for such a purpose (development of bus roadways) as long as our mass transportation system is privately owned," the Mayor declared. "Such a program would involve the use of public funds for private purposes."

"Even without the legal question, there still would remain the policy question of whether it would be wise or fair to use public tax money for improvements which might well be used to enhance a private utility's profits, rather than our bus service."

"In the final analysis, the City of St. Louis should not, and in all probability could not, carry out key provisions of the Gilman report with the transportation company under private ownership."

Two Potent Arguments. "Therefore, we have two potent arguments for public ownership: (1) more and better transit service could be provided at no more cost to the rider; and (2) a major portion of the Gilman report would have to be ignored if private transit ownership prevails."

The city charter now contains a provision "which would appear to authorize the city to operate a transit system," Tucker stated. Section 11 of Article I reads: "The city shall have the power to acquire, construct, own, operate and maintain or sell, lease, mortgage, pledge or otherwise dispose of public utilities or any estate or interest therein or any other utility of service to the city, its inhabitants or any part thereof."

If the city proceeded under this general power, however, the transit operation would become "merely another department of city government," the Mayor declared. "This I do not believe would be wise because I am convinced that the Transit Commission should be separate and apart from the regular municipal operations if we are to be reasonably certain that it will be insulated against unwarranted political maneuvering."

Area-Wide Solution.

Tucker explained why he was proposing a municipal commission rather than a Metropolitan District Authority, which would take in suburban areas as well as the city. The mass transit problem transcends political boundaries and eventually must be solved on an area-wide basis, he noted.

"Actually," he said, "I believe that the metropolitan approach is the ideal long-range solution, but I honestly fear that the local situation would reach the point of chaos before this area-wide solution could be achieved."

"The establishment of a metropolitan authority would require naming of a Board of Freeholders which would then have one year to study the problem and submit a specific plan to the voters. Even assuming that the freeholders proposed a plan which would be equitable to both the city and the county, I fear that many questions would be raised as to whether the city residents or the suburbanites were getting the best bargain."

"Such bickering, even though perhaps unjustified, would gravely endanger adoption of the Metropolitan Authority. Meanwhile the city, which provides 88 per cent of the transit riders, would be strangled by more traffic and less transit."

A First Step. "I envision the establishment of a Municipal Transit Commission as merely a first step toward public ownership on a broader metropolitan basis. Success in the city would speed this day."

"Certainly, St. Louis county and its transit needs should not, and would not, be ignored under the municipal plan I have outlined here today. Obviously, the municipally-owned transit company, if created, should continue to serve those county areas which are already served by Public Service Co."

"The Municipal Commission also should have the power to acquire the County Transit Co., thus giving the community a common transit system. In addition, it should have the power to expand service in the county areas under some type of contract arrangements with suburban communities or interests."

"The details of these arrangements would, of course, have to be worked out by the commission."

within the framework of powers granted under the proposed charter amendment."

Public Service Co. last January proposed that it be relieved of most of its municipal taxes in return for developing a single transportation system for St. Louis and the county. It asked that the city and the suburban municipalities eliminate their gross receipts and motor fuel taxes, amounting to $1,015,000 a year.

Tucker rejected this proposal. He said it was "merely a stop-gap plan" which did not come to grips with the basic need for a rapid transit system, and added that there was no assurance the company would use its big saving for improved service rather than enhanced profits.

The Mayor noted that his proposal for public ownership constituted an about-face.

In 1954 a Board of Freeholders proposed establishment of a Metropolitan Transportation District and a Metropolitan Transit Authority to regulate public transportation and to determine the feasibility of public ownership. Tucker opposed this district plan, and one of his arguments was that "public ownership would lend itself to political pressures which would complicate rather than solve the transportation problem."

"After serving as Mayor for seven years, with traffic mounting and mass transit deteriorating, I have frankly tempered that opinion," Tucker told the aldermen. "My present conviction is that no feasible and economical alternative to public ownership is available. I am convinced that the proper safeguards against any improper political interference can be provided."

Tucker in 1954 said he did not believe that public ownership would provide better service than private ownership. He has changed his mind on this point also, he declared.

His proposal for public ownership is the result of extensive studies and discussions with the city's utility, traffic, planning and legal experts, the Mayor continued, declaring:

"We have reached the unanimous decision that municipal public ownership offers our only hope to improve mass transit as part of a well co-ordinated program to improve both traffic and transportation."

In his message to the aldermen the Mayor did not attempt to estimate what it would cost to buy Public Service Co. A $20,000,000 valuation was placed on the utility's properties by the Missouri Public Service Commission when it granted the last fare increase in 1958.

St. Louis Public Service Co. is controlled by National City Lines, Inc., Chicago holding company which operates transit systems in more than a score of cities. National City owns 49.93 per cent of Public Service capital stock.

John C. Baine, president of Public Service, has taken the position that St. Louis can get a major transit improvement program either by giving the private utility the tax relief it seeks or else by going to public ownership.

"This is a matter for the community to decide," he said in his annual report to the 3200 shareholders last February. "But the decision must be made now."

of the government of the United States of North America, which appears to have adopted a policy that in other times served to advance Fascism."

Refugees in Florida said 5000 armed men in Cuba are ready to "declare war" on Castro May 2 unless he purges his government of Communists and schedules early elections for a new congress.

Fernando Lopez del Toro, self-styled secretary of the "Cuban anti-Communist rebel army," said in Miami.

"The materials of war are in our hands throughout the six Cuban provinces. The point of attack has already been decided."

Lopez's ultimatum was circulated in Miami yesterday. He said copies were smuggled into Cuba and that a 19-year-old volunteer, Elmo Martinez Garcia, was supposed to deliver it to Castro here.

U. S. Warns Castro on Dangers of Communism.

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UPI)—The United States today called on Prime Minister Castro of Cuba to realize the danger which "international Communism" poses to his and other free countries.

When asked to comment on charges by Castro today, the State Department issued a statement saying one of the "hallmarks" of dictatorship "such as that of Hitler and Mussolini was the muzzling of the free press."

It noted that 95 per cent of Cuba's press "is under government control." The statement made no reference to Franco. "The United States," White said, "considers international Communism a real and present threat to democracy and hopes that Dr. Castro himself and the Cuban people will come to realize what a danger this subversive movement poses to free men everywhere."

PRESIDENT ACTS TO IMPROVE TIES WITH PANAMA

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 19 (UPI) — President Eisenhower announced today a broad program of pay increases and improved housing for employees of the Panama canal zone in an effort to improve relations between the United States and the republic of Panama.

The nine-point program, most of which will be put into effect immediately, included a 10 percent pay increase for unskilled and semi-skilled workers and teachers in the Latin American schools within the zone, 1000 new housing units for canal workers and installation of a $750,000 water main to serve Panama City.

Relations between the United States and Panama have been strained recently over many problems, chiefly involving greater recognition of the government of Panama in its relations with the Panama Canal company — and improved benefits for Panamanians employed in the zone.

Mr. Eisenhower, in addition to ordering a number of specific actions taken immediately, directed also all agencies in the zone to review the list of jobs hitherto reserved for United States citizens "with a view of placing more Panamanians in skilled and supervisory positions."

The announcement of Mr. Eisenhower's approval of the program was made by Wayne Hawks, acting White House press secretary.

The program made no mention of one point at issue — the Panamanian desire for equal display of the republic's flag with that of the United States.

In another action, the President set up a three-member emergency board to stave off a strike threatened by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen against the Long Island Railroad.

INQUIRY INTO PURCHASE BY BRENTWOOD ALDERMAN

A special committee was appointed last night by Mayor Ray Parker of Brentwood to investigate a complaint that Alderman John V. McNutt of the Fourth Ward ordered $1219 worth of fogging chemicals without consultation with other aldermen. Competitive bidding and consultation with the board are required by ordinance.

McNutt was suspended from the board's public works and welfare committee by unanimous vote of the aldermen. McNutt voted for the resolution. He was replaced by Alderman Thomas R. Mara Jr.

Investigating the charge will be Mara, Alderman Forrest Moeckel and City Attorney John F. Nangle. McNutt termed the charge "politics," saying he had made only tentative arrangements for purchase of the mosquito-spraying chemical from the Puritan Chemical Co., 1605 Tower Grove avenue, last December. The city was to receive an 8 percent discount for an early order, he said.

CITY-COUNTY MERGER DRIVE TO BE STARTED

Plans for a campaign to merge St. Louis and St. Louis county were discussed last night at a meeting of a citizens' group at the Chase Hotel.

The group agreed to work for appointment of another board of freeholders whose power would be limited to drafting a merger plan which was backed by a minority of the old board. A district plan, favored by the majority, was defeated at an election last Nov. 3.

Another meeting will be held in several weeks to review drafts of petitions for appointment of freeholders and plan for recruiting workers and developing a promotion campaign.

Among those attending the meeting were Charles F. Vatterott, chairman of the former board; Mrs. Rogers Deakin, Richard Shewmaker, Dale Ferris and Joseph McClellan, former board members; Joseph P. Clark, president of the AFL-CIO St. Louis Labor Council; Democratic National Committeeman Mark Holloran of Missouri, and Lon Hocker, attorney and Republican candidate for Governor in 1956.

RULES LABOR ACT WAS VIOLATED BY A.O. SMITH, UNION

The A. O. Smith Corp. and Boilermakers Local Union 575 violated the Taft-Hartley Act in the firing of union insurgents in the bitter dispute within the ranks of the union in 1957 and 1958, a trial examiner of the National Labor Relations Board held today.

In an 80-page report filed at Washington, the examiner, Charles L. Ferguson, recommended that the Labor Board order reinstatement of 23 former employees of the Smith firm, Granite City automobile frame plant. The employees would be compensated for lost wages under the recommendation.

The examiner also recommended that Local 575 be ordered to cease discouraging union employees from participating in a membership revocation campaign.

Ferguson heard testimony here in October, 1958, on a complaint by the Labor Board that A. O. Smith Corp. discharged 23 men ostensibly for picketing, but actually to rid the union of members opposing the leadership of Willard Herzog, then president of Local 575. The 23 boiler-makers charged they were "tried" for insubordination by a union "kangaroo court" and were fired by the company at union insistence.

The bitter dispute within the 1500-man local union resulted, it was charged, from the "tyrannical rule" of Herzog. Complaints of mismanagement of union affairs and improper accounting of funds were brought against Herzog by dissident members headed by William Hogan of Granite City and William Randolph of Alton.

Herzog, whose term would have expired next month, was ousted last August by William A. Calvin, international union president. Herzog subsequently was expelled from the union. He was found guilty of malfeasance in the handling and allocation of funds, creating dissension and disclosing to company representatives the private business of the local.

Following Herzog's removal, a former union vice president, Flarce Warfield of Granite City, was named president pro tem of Local 575. A. O. Smith makes Chevrolet automobile frames at its Granite City plant.

A company spokesman said attorneys are studying the report. He pointed out that the trial examiner's recommendations are not binding unless followed by an NLRB order of compliance.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MORRIS F. SLUPSKY

Funeral services for Morris F. Slupsky, a former St. Louis real estate dealer, were held today at the Berger undertaking establishment, 4715 McPherson avenue, with burial in Mount Sinai Cemetery.

Mr. Slupsky, 63 years old, died Friday of a heart ailment at Miami, Fla., where he had lived since his retirement in 1956. He was in the real estate business here for more than 20 years, and formerly headed the Caroline Realty Co. of University City. He was a past president of the Missouri Real Estate Association and served also as president of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board in 1949. His father, the late Abe Slupsky, was active in Republican politics here for many years.

Survivors include his wife, Myrtle, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Feldman, both of Miami, a sister and three brothers.

POLICE CALLED TO 3 MEETINGS TO HEAR CHIEF

Chief of Police Curtis Brostrom announced today he will speak to 2500 uniformed and civilian members of the department at three meetings at Roosevelt High School auditorium Thursday.

Purpose of the meetings, the chief explained, is to "explain procedures and policies of the police board designed to give St. Louis the best possible police department." The expected result, Brostrom told reporters, is a better understanding of the board's program.

The meetings are scheduled for 1 p.m., primarily for the 3 to 11 p.m. watch; 4:30 p.m., for the 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. watch, and 9 p.m., for the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. watch. Department members will be given compensatory time for attendance at the meetings. Department personnel on recreation or furlough will be excused.

THIS IS YOUR SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE

The Official Tangle Towns Tie-Breaking Puzzle Will Appear in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20, 1960

In order to break the existing tie, and in accordance with Rule 2 (c) of the Official Missouri Tangle Towns Rules which have appeared from time to time in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, an Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle will be published on Wednesday, April 20, 1960, in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. If your answers to the 72 Tangle Towns Puzzles, submitted on or before 5 p.m., Friday, April 8, 1960, were the SAME as the official lists of correct answers as published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch beginning Sunday, April 10, 1960, and continuing through Friday, April 15, 1960, you are eligible and MUST submit the OFFICIAL TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE to compete for the prizes in the tie. Both the SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE below and the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle to follow are fascinating diversions and offer many hours of entertainment. To reduce this coming Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle to its essentials, and also to acquaint players with its method of operation, we have prepared the SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE below. By working it and carefully following instructions, you will be better prepared to work the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle when it appears. You will note that Rule 2 (c) of the Official Tangle Towns Rules states: "In case more than one person solves correctly the same number of puzzles, the prize tied for, and as many subsequent prizes as there are persons tied, will be reserved and those so tying will be required to solve a tie-breaking puzzle. Accompanying this tie-breaking puzzle will be an official list of place names in the State of Missouri. From these, entrants will make up a list of place names in accordance with instructions to be given at that time, and the entrant who earns the highest score in so doing will be awarded the highest of the prizes tied for. The next highest prize will be awarded to the entrant earning the second highest score, and so on down through the list of reserved prizes that have been tied for." For purposes of instruction in working this SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE, and to clarify its method of operation, we have selected 24 place names. Now look at the SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE BELOW!

Do Not Send In This Sample Puzzle

The Purpose of This Sample Tie-Breaking Puzzle is to Explain the Operation of the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle. Do Not Send it in!

Here is a list of Eligible Place Names for the purpose of solving this Sample Tie-Breaking Puzzle:

ARNOLD	JACK	QUARRY
AZEN	KEBLE	RIGGS
DAMSEL	LISBON	SILEX
DAX	MECCA	TYSON
DIXON	MELZO	VETO
FAREWELL	OPAL	WELA PARK
GULF	OVID	WELDON
HELTON	PLEYNA	ZORA

PQRRRSTUVWXYZ

When the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle is published, the object of the game will be to obtain a score as HIGH AS POSSIBLE! You must be careful not to use any one letter more times than it appears in the series of letters provided. There will be certain points credited, and there will be certain points deducted—somewhat in this manner:

- There will be certain points credited for each place name used.
- There will be certain points credited if specified letter combinations are used.
- There will be a bonus of certain points given if all the letters provided are used.
- There will be certain points deducted for each of the letters provided that are NOT used in the place names selected.

PRACTICE ON THIS SAMPLE PUZZLE

Now, for the purpose of working this SAMPLE TIE-BREAKING PUZZLE only, let us assume that:

- 3 points will be credited for each eligible place name used.
- 4 points will be credited each time an "A" and an "R" appear together in that order, "AR."
- 7 points will be credited each time an "E" and an "L" appear together in that order, "EL."
- 20 points will be given as a bonus if all of the above letters are used in the place names selected. (This is in addition to all other credits listed above.)
- 2 points will be deducted for each of the above letters NOT USED in the place names selected.

How to Work the Sample Tie-Breaking Puzzle

Now—first count the letters in the series of letters! Remember—no letter may be used more times than that letter appears. You will find that there are 39 letters, in this order:

4—A's	1—F	1—K	1—P	1—U
1—B	1—G	3—L's	1—Q	1—V
1—C	1—H	1—M	3—R's	1—W
2—D's	1—J	2—N's	1—S	1—X
3—E's	1—J	3—O's	1—T	1—Y
				1—Z

REMEMBER—When the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle is published, winners will be determined by highest scores.

IMPORTANT

If you are among those tied, YOU ARE ELIGIBLE and MUST submit the Official Tie-Breaking Puzzle to be published on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20, 1960, in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in order to compete for the prizes. BE SURE to see the Post-Dispatch on WEDNESDAY — TOMORROW!

The object, remember, is to get the HIGHEST POSSIBLE SCORE—so let's select the following place names from the list: QUARRY, WELA PARK, HELTON, MELZO, DAX, OVID. We have used 6 place names—so at 3 points for each place name used, we get a total of 18 points for PLACE NAMES USED. We now write 18 on the line provided for "Total Points for Place Names Used." We have used 2 combinations of "AR." As each combination of "AR" is worth 4 points, we now write 8 on the line provided for "Total Points for 'AR'." The combination "EL" has a value of 7 points. We have used 3 combinations of "EL"—one of these is in WELA PARK, which also has an "AR" combination. The instructions state that 7 points will be credited each time an "E" and "L" appear together in that order, "EL." We are therefore entitled to take credit for the "EL" combination, also, in WELA PARK. Let's point out that the name itself may be used only once, but if there is more than one special scoring combination in a name, credit is taken for each of the combinations. We therefore take credit for 3 "EL" combinations at 7 points each by writing 21 on the line provided for "Total Points for 'EL'." Now, we find that in using these 6 place names, we have used only 32 of the 39 letters in the puzzle alphabet. Therefore, we are not entitled to the 20-point bonus given if ALL of the letters are used. Instead, we must deduct 14 points (2 points for each of the 7 letters not used). Now—you experiment with this Sample Tie-Breaking Puzzle and see if YOU can get a higher score.

BOARD SUSPENDS ST. JOHN POLICE CHIEF AND AID

Police Chief Edward H. Kohl-schreiber and Assistant Chief Charles Eifert of St. John were suspended from their jobs for one week, and Village Attorney
T. Douglas Moore was fired at a meeting last night of the St.
John board of trustees.

The trustees gave no reason for the action. When Kohl-schreiber asked why he was being suspended, Albert Staehle, chairman of the board, refused to answer him.

Both Kohlshreiber and Moore told a reporter the action was a political matter.

Moore said Staehle advised him last Thursday that he would be replaced by David A. McMahon, an attorney who lives in University City.

"I asked him if that was because of political affiliations," Moore said. "He told me he would not deny that nor would he confirm it."

Staehle became chairman of the board succeeding Arthur Hoebel, who was defeated for re-election April 5. Four new members elected in April aligned themselves with Staehle and another incumbent, Kenneth Lesinski, to gain control of the nine-member board.

Kohlshreiber told a reporter the old board, which had appointed him chief a year ago, favored him by a 7-2 margin.
The new board opposes him, 6-3, he said.

The proposals to suspend the two policemen and to fire Moore were made by Staehle. St. John has one other full-time policeman.

Clarence C. Matthews, a newly-elected board member who was named police commissioner, said he wanted to "investigate" Kohlshreiber and Eifert. Kohl-schreiber asked what he had done to require investigation, but was refused any information.

The proposals were adopted without dissent. Staehle also proposed that McMahon be named special counsel for the village and that Police Sgt. William Fanger, the only full-time officer not under suspension, be appointed acting chief. The trustees concurred.

Kohlshreiber had been a St.
John policeman since the village was incorporated 15 years ago and had served as chief most of that time. He was made a sergeant two years ago but was elevated again to chief a year later. His salary is $450 a month.

Moore was named village attorney two years ago. He was paid $130 a month.

As special counsel, McMahon will be paid $100 a month plus $15 for each meeting he is required to attend.

Staehle could not be reached for comment.

Kohlshreiber's record was defended by Ray LaBrayere, one of the trustees, who said. "We've had no complaints about the man. He's been doing a wonderful job. We don't have any trouble in St. John. To let a man go like this just isn't right."

LaBrayere said he did not oppose the motion to suspend the chief because "I could see they outnumbered us, 6 to 3."

THREE BUSINESS PLACES ROBBED IN EAST ST. LOUIS

An undetermined amount of money was stolen yesterday from Bush's Steakhouse, 100 West Broadway, East St. Louis, and two other East St. Louis business establishments, police reported.

No sign of forced entry was found in the restaurant. Police said someone either remained hidden inside the building after it was closed early yesterday or used a key to gain entry. Money taken from a safe and from office cabinets.

Other establishments entered included the East Side Pharmacy, 341 East Broadway, and
F. W. Woolworth Co., 219 Collinsville avenue. Safes in both buildings were opened and the contents stolen.

Other awards presented at a luncheon meeting included the non-musical television entertainment award to WNTA-TV, Newark, N. J., for "The Play of the Week" and to David Susskind for "The Moon and Sixpence," NBC. The television education award was given to the Columbia Broadcasting System for "The Population Explosion" and to WGBH-TV, Boston, for "Decisions," a series of panel discussions of problems of today.

The awards were set up in 1940 by the board of regents of the university system of Georgia to recognize public service by radio and television in the memory of George Foster Peabody, of Columbus, Ga., who became a New York banker and philanthropist.

Other winners were: Television entertainment (musical): "The Bell Telephone Hour," National Broadcasting Co., and "Great Music from Chicago," WGN-TV, Chicago.

Television contribution to international understanding: "The Ed Sullivan Show," CBS and "Small World," CBS.

Television special awards: Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS, and "The Lost Class of '59," CBS. Stanton was cited for his efforts to remove the restrictive provisions in the "equal time" rule as applied to news programs.

120,000 TAXPAYERS SEND IN RETURNS IN LAST TWO DAYS

Federal income tax returns from 35,000 last-minute taxpayers arrived at the Internal Revenue Service office here in the morning mail, Alvin M. Kelley, district director of internal revenue reported.

Except in special cases, any returns that arrive from now on will be considered delinquent, Kelley said.

Robert M. Cutts, chief of Internal Revenue's collection division, said 85,000 returns were received yesterday and a total of 180,000 have arrived since last Friday. The office here collects from about 800,000 taxpayers in eastern Missouri. Cutts estimated total collections here this year at $1,250,000,000.

Relatively few taxpayers sought help at Internal Revenue's office at the Federal Building this year. Cutts said the number has dwindled in recent years because of simpler tax forms, explanatory tax booklets and expansion of a system of answering tax queries by telephone.

FAA FINES PAN AMERICAN FOR POOR INSPECTION OF JET

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The Federal Aviation Agency has fined Pan American Airways $3000 for faulty maintenance and inspection of a Boeing 707 jet transport.

Emphasizing the seriousness with which it viewed the infraction, which forced the pilot to jettison fuel and return to base shortly after takeoff from New York City for Paris on Jan. 16, the FAA also has:

Suspended the flight engineer certificate of Gail Moyer Engle for 15 days, ordered the mechanic certificate of E. P. Irmscher, suspended for 27 days, imposed a $150 fine on William Hardy, the electrical mechanic who sealed the static ports during a pressure check of the altimeter system.

AMERICA'S LEADING AIRLINE

ASSAILS 'RUNNING TO WASHINGTON'

Twentieth century Americans will establish themselves as the "peace generation" if they continue to run to Washington with all their problems, Rudolph F. Bannow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said here today.

Bannow, head of a Bridgeport (Conn.) machine tool firm, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club at the Statler Hilton Hotel.

"Instead of giving our problems to Washington," he said, "we must ask Congressmen to eliminate unnecessary spending so that more of the earned dollar can be available to the individual and to industry."

Bannow said the three major roadblocks in the path of prosperity and progress are excessive taxation, poor labor-management relations and deficit financing.

"Foreign trade is good," he said, "but it has got to flow both ways. We must be competitive and we are not."

American business is faced with a wage differential of 2-to-1 and 3-to-1 in competing with European and South American competitors, he said, and the Oriental differential is even greater.

He pointed out that this country's machine tool exports have been reduced 30 per cent in the last 15 years, and typewriter exports have been reduced from 50 per cent of the international trade to only 10 per cent.

To offset this loss, he said, American business must obtain the best equipment and become more productive. Labor must co-operate or lose jobs, he added.

The federal tax load, he said, is making it impossible for business with more than 25 employees to operate successfully. He urged support of a bill, pending in Congress, which would reduce the corporate tax from 52 to 47 per cent, the individual 20 per cent bracket to 15 per cent, and the 91 per cent bracket to 47 per cent, all in a five-year period.

These reductions actually would increase the amount of taxes collected he said, adding that a 10 per cent cut in the surtax bracket in 1954 resulted in a tax collection increase.

Bombing

Sunday with a group of Minnesota students protesting against segregation here.

Looby said he "very definitely" associated the blast with his desegregation activities.

Several windows were shattered at Meharry Medical College, across the street, and buildings were shaken at nearby Fisk University, both Negro colleges. Houses on either side of the Looby home were damaged.

A fight between Negroes and white youths climaxed weeks of racial tension in Savannah, Ga., where Negroes have been holding sitdown demonstrations and boycotting stores with segregated lunch counters.

Ax handles, pipes, knives and other weapons were swung in the brief but vicious clash in a park last night. A white youth was taken to a hospital with a serious knife wound in the neck. Two other white youths and a Negro were treated at a hospital and released.

Police jailed two Negroes and seven white persons and began a search of the area for some 20 others believed to have taken part in the fight.

Melvin Bryan, 18 years old, suffered a deep stab wound in the side of the neck. He told police he was knifed from behind when he stepped from his automobile to watch the fight.

Allen Louis Johnson, a 22-year-old Negro, suffered a bruised elbow when he was struck by an ax handle. He told officers he was walking through the park on the way home "when a bunch of white boys popped up out of the bushes and one of them hit me."

The fight in the park occurred a few hours after police reported a white man struck a Negro student at a lunch counter demonstration at the S. H. Kress & Co. store. It was the second such incident in three days.

Benjamin B. White Jr., 19, a student at Savannah State College, told police that Marvin Crumpton, 29, slugged him in the back of the neck.

A white man knocked a Negro demonstrator from a lunch counter stool in the same store Saturday. The Negro's jaw was broken.

Seven Negro ministers held a silent prayer session on a safety zone at an intersection in downtown Chattanooga, Tenn. One of the signs they carried read, "We pray for our city in Christian love. Stop Jim Crow."

In addition, Negroes picked a downtown variety store and held sit-downs at three lunch counters in Chattanooga.

A Negro doctor reported he was arrested for swimming in the Gulf of Mexico at Biloxi, Miss., near a swank hotel.

In Marshall, Tex., a judge ordered four Negro students to stand trial on charges growing out of lunch counter sit-downs, March 30. He dismissed motions to quash the charges.

At Jacksonville, Fla., seven high school students were arrested yesterday and the sheriff's office said the group was a nucleus for a Nazi-style youth organization dedicated to the elimination of Jews and Negroes.

Deputy Robert Stringer said the youth met secretly every week to outline plans for expanding the underground organization into groups of 25 each.

They wore armbands and the leader had a jacket with a swastika on the front of it. Literature praising Hitler and the Nazi Suden Reich—Southern Empire—regime and maps of Hitler's military campaigns were found by investigators.

The group called itself the Here's why! Folks here who have tasted Hill and Hill discover: no matter how much you like your present brand, you'll find in Hill and Hill good reasons for making a change. We've put into Hill and Hill the best of the things that make Kentucky whiskey taste great. And we take the important extra step of aging this whiskey in a warehouse that produces a constant "Kentucky Summer" climate of 72°. But it's worth it, for our whiskey is mellowed to perfection with a flavor and lightness all its own. Taste it, and you'll make it your own.

Hill and Hill in this 86 proof bottling combines enjoyable lightness with the smooth flavor of authentic Kentucky Straight bourbon.

CANVASS OF VOTE FOR LEVEE BOARD JOBS UNDER WAY

A canvass of votes cast in last week's East Side primary elections began yesterday in St. Clair county. By agreement of two rival Democratic factions, the count began in Centreville, Stites and Canteen Townships, which are included in the East Side Levee and Sanitary Districts.

A bitter Democratic factional fight for control of the district's board of trustees resulted in a close election. Both sides have taken court action to prepare the way for an election contest when the canvass is completed.

Circuit Judge Joseph E. Fleming issued a temporary injunction yesterday at Belleville on behalf of the faction led by Centreville Township Supervisor Francis Touchette. The injunction prevents the St. Clair and Madison county clerks and the East St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners from tampering with voting machines, paper ballots or return sheets.

Signers of Petition.
The petition requesting the injunction was signed by John Kerins, Monroe L. Flinn, Michael Szweczyk, Thomas F. (Skip) Hennessy and Thomas McGee, all levee board candidates on the Touchette slate, and Louis Walker, unsuccessful candidate for the St. Clair county board of assessors.

Only Hennessy, of the five levee board candidates on the slate, apparently won nomination on the basis of unofficial returns.

Judge Fleming issued a similar injunction last Wednesday on behalf of the faction led by East St. Louis Mayor Alvin G. Fields. That order, however, applied only to St. Clair County Clerk Elmer Touchette, brother of Francis Touchette. The injunction was sought by Dan E. Costello, Lawrence Tolar and John E. Molla, incumbent members of the levee board, who apparently won re-nomination.

Incumbent George Duff, also a member of the Fields organization, won nomination to the fifth levee board seat. The only Fields man who appeared to have lost was Ernest Ell.

Immediately after the election, Francis Touchette charged that the Fields group was responsible for numerous election irregularities. He said there were payments for votes and improper activity in and near the polls.

Poll watchers of the Touchette organization took pictures showing more than one person inside voting booths in several precincts in Venice and East St. Louis.

Both sides announced that they might contest the results of the election. The Fields group said it would file a contest if the canvass changed the results. The Touchette organization said it would file a contest if the canvass did not change the results.

The canvass in Madison county, where paper ballots are used, began last week. In both Madison and St. Clair counties, official tabulations are expected to be completed by the end of this week.

WIFE HELD, MAN FATALLY STABBED IN HOME DISPUTE

COUNTY GROUPS FIGHT PLAN FOR STORM SEWER

Representatives of north St. Louis county neighborhood improvement organizations agreed last night to fight the Metropolitan Sewer District's plan to build a storm sewer in the Fountain creek watershed.

A spokesman for the group, Hal F. Nolde, 7 Calverton road, Calverton Park, said many residents of the watershed believe the storm sewer is not essential and the cost would be out of proportion to the benefits it would provide.

Nolde said residents also objected because they had no voice in deciding whether the sewer should be built or how it should be paid for.

The Sewer District trustees have decided to build the sewer and plan to pay for it by issuing tax bills, he said. The average homeowner would pay $1000 for the improvement under the tax bill method, he said.

Nolde contended that many of the houses that were included in the subdistrict are not within the Fountain creek watershed.

A spokesman for the Sewer District denied emphatically that the cost would be as high as Nolde claimed.

"We are now completing our studies and don't yet have a final estimate of the cost of this project to each taxpayer, but we are quite sure there is no substance to the $1000 per homeowner figure," the spokesman said.

The subdistrict is bounded by Calverton Park, Missouri Highway 140, Graham road and Grandview drive. The area includes 7000 lots, most of them developed.

At a public hearing on the matter last February, the vote was overwhelmingly against the sewer proposal. At that time, the cost of the sewer was estimated at $3,500,000, but Nolde said it had risen to more than $5,000,000.

Nolde said it was agreed at last night's meeting, held at Calverton Park village hall, to retain a lawyer and to conduct a drive to alert residents of the watershed to the high cost of the improvement.

Another public hearing is to be held and the organization will present its objections then, he added.

TASTE THE GREATNESS

...of America's most celebrated bourbon

SENATOR HENRY CLAY toasts Jenny Lind, the "Swedish Nightingale," at her Washington debut in 1850 with his favorite Kentucky bourbon, Old Crow.

Why has Old Crow been called "great" for 125 years? Why was it so admired by the great men who helped build America. Why, today, is it America's most preferred bourbon? Simply, because Old Crow was and is the perfect Kentucky bourbon. Its incomparable Kentucky flavor has been acclaimed by men like ANDREW JACKSON, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, HENRY CLAY. Taste the greatness of Old Crow tonight.

UPRISINGS IN DIXIE, AFRICA COMPARED

The boycott by African natives and sit-down strikes of Negroes in the South stem from a common, interrelated cause, Lester B. Granger, of New York, executive director of the National Urban League, said here today.

Granger was in St. Louis to address the forty-first annual meeting of the local Urban League at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Statler Hilton Hotel.

He said the Africans' boycott and the Negro students' sit-down strikers were inspired by the Gandhi-like passive resistance movement successfully used in Alabama by the Rev. Martin Luther King.

"It is true that racial discrimination has hurt the United States abroad," Granger told a press conference, "but I deplore the tendency to base criticism of American's race practices on their effects overseas. The important thing is what it means to us at home."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Tues., April 19, 1960 15A

The National Urban League officer asserted that people in African, Asia and Middle Eastern countries "are highly conscious and sensitive to American's practices of racial discrimination." Their understanding often is inaccurate and frequently leads them to the opinion that this country is a fraud, he said.

It is no secret, Granger continued, that Russia has chosen Africa as the next area of exploitation. America, which wants and can help the underdeveloped nations of Africa, is handicapped in making a mutual self-respecting approach, he declared.

Speaking of the Southern sit-down strikes by Negro students, Granger said they represented one phase of the change that is sweeping the South. "The Negro is determined to change the status quo in the South," he declared.

The most important thing about the sit-down strikes has been the indorsement and support of the nation's entire Negro population and a segment of the white population, he said. Granger stated that the federal civil rights bill is unsatisfactory but it was a gain because "it was pushed past the Southern blockade."

Recalling that St. Louis had changed since he was first here in 1926, Granger said the city is typical of most industrial centers in realizing its future lies in better utilization of all its manpower.

Wants Terrorist Freed.
MONROVIA, Liberia, April 19 (AP)—Kenya labor leader Tom Mboya said yesterday that if Mau Mau terrorist Jomo Kenyatta is not freed within three months, he will ask African members of the Kenya government to resign. Civil disobedience will follow, he predicted.

JAPAN PLANNING INCREASE TO 27 HOLIDAYS A YEAR

TOKYO, April 19 (AP)—Japan, a nation with a reputation for hard work, is talking about taking more holidays. Nine national holidays are observed now; a movement is on to increase the number to 27 a year.

A controversial list of nominees includes the first day of every month; Aug. 15, the day Japan surrendered in World War II, and—for the first time — Christmas. The new holiday program was drafted by a special committee of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party headed by Ichiro Kono, one of Japan's most influential politicians.

It touched off a hot debate among the public, and a hotter debate is forecast in Parliament. The committee proposed naming Aug. 15 "Peace Day." Opponents say this would only bring unpleasant reminders of the last war.

Opposition is also reported to the proposal to call Dec. 25 "International Friendship Day," on the ground that its Christian aspect has little appeal to the Japanese public.

Japanese Christians, about one in every 200 persons, observe Christmas privately. Since the war large cities have big Christmas eve parties, but business goes on as usual Dec. 25.

Another controversy arose over the proposal to designate Feb. 11 "National Foundation Day." Critics attack it as a revival of the prewar "Empire Day" based on a mythical origin of Japan.

The Tokyo newspaper Mainichi favored in principle the idea of more leisure, editorializing:

"We have been whiling away so much of our precious time in gossiping and sitting at desks with no concentration on our work. . . . We can easily create more leisure without lessening the work amount. . . . (by) working hard during the set working hours."

Japanese working for the government and established firms now have Sundays off, but fishermen, farmers and small shop employees frequently work seven days a week the year around.

MIKOYAN BAITS IRAQI TRAP FOR RED LEADERS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio

BASRA, Iraq, April 19—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's visit to Basra last week helped local security authorities round up many leaders of the Communist youth movement.

Police and army officials used the visiting statesman as a lure to draw out the suppressed Communists. Unofficial reports said more than 80 were rounded up.

They were in pro-Soviet banner-waving crowd of youths clashed with security forces on the airport road and gave Mikoyan and his party a few moments of anxiety when they blocked the road.

Officials would not confirm that they had baited a trap with Mikoyan, but there were no crowds elsewhere along the road which was closed to traffic hours before the Soviet visitor arrived. Heavy units of troops were stationed on most of the route. Only at the scene of the clash were there no heavy guards.

Kennedy Gives Campaign New Look With Attack on Humphrey As 'Hatchet Man' for Others

Brings Religious Issue Into Open by Assailing Those Who Would Deprive Him of Nomination Because of His Catholicism.

By EDWARD F. WOODS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 19.

SENATOR JOHN F. KENNEDY today continued his high-gear drive in West Virginia for victory in the Democratic primary May 10.

In a series of meetings south of here yesterday, Kennedy gave his campaign a new look with an attack on Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, his only nominal primary opponent. Humphrey was described as a "hatchet man" for other Democratic presidential hopefuls who look to the West Virginia primary as a burial ground for Kennedy's chances for the nomination, largely on the religious issue.

Kennedy attacked those who would deprive him of the nomination on the basis of his Catholic religion alone. "This was a significant departure from his past policy of letting others raise the religious issue through questions."

In general, in reply to such questions, he has said that he believes in separation of the church and state as set forth in the Constitution but likewise believes there should not be religious tests applied to candidates for office, tests which are proscribed by the Constitution.

Kennedy today accepted a challenge from Humphrey to a face-to-face debate on the issues in the West Virginia campaign. Kennedy told reporters today en route by bus to fill a speaking engagement at nearby Bethany College, that he would be "glad to debate the issues with Senator Humphrey on any platform anywhere in the state."

"He said the arrangement should be initiated by Humphrey since it was he who issued the challenge. He added that television probably would be the best medium because it would reach the greatest number of people."

(The Associated Press reported that the manager of WHA-TV at Huntington said that both candidates would appear on an hour-long television program on May 9, eve of the election.) Kennedy turned down invitations by Humphrey for debates in the Wisconsin primary campaign, in which Kennedy scored an impressive victory early this month.

Kennedy said he believed then that it might be harmful to the party to have long, personal debate between candidates. He said, however, that "I can't put up with this drumbeat of charges, many of them distorted as they were in Wisconsin."

Humphrey supporters have charged in recent days that Kennedy is trying to make it appear that anyone who votes against him in the primary here is a "bigot" and opposed to Kennedy because of his Catholic religion.

KENNEDY HAS CHARGED Humphrey with letting himself be "used" by supporters of other presidential hopefuls such as Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, of Texas, and Stuart Symington, of Missouri, who declined earlier challenges by Kennedy to enter the West Virginia and other primaries.

Kennedy won vigorous applause from 600 students at Bethany College with his statement that "I'm going to go to church where I want regardless of whether I am elected president or not." Bethany is operated by the Christian churches (Disciples of Christ).

Kennedy told the students that he was opposed to the use of the power of the state "to compel conformity in thinking on any matter, religious or anything else."

In a later appearance before the 100-member student body of West Liberty Teachers College, Kennedy warned that "the next 40 years will determine whether the Communists will be dominant in the world or whether the free peoples will have rolled them back."

In other speeches Kennedy was applauded vigorously as he ripped into the religious objections to his candidacy and criticized other presidential candidates for refusing to meet him in primaries and instead, joining with Humphrey to "gang-up" against him in West Virginia.

In one speech to about 300 coal miners and their wives at the Miners Memorial Center, near Morgantown, which is conducted by a Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Walt Case, Kennedy did not mention the religious issue. However he struck hard at other Democratic aspirants who avoided head-on collisions with him and are depending on four or five "former leaders" of the Democratic party to hand the nomination to them at the Los Angeles convention, and tell the voters: "Here's our man—no body is mad at him."

There were no manifestations of unfriendliness toward Kennedy anywhere yesterday as he walked the streets of several towns, toured factories and talked and shook hands with hundreds who gathered at meetings and other places where his caravan stopped.

KENNEDY AID'S expressed gratification at the friendly receptions he received. Only one incident marred the day. That was outside the Miners Memorial Center when a man passed out a mimeographed diatribe on the theme that to elect a Catholic President "would be like voting for a Fascist or a Nazi." Most persons leaving the hall angrily returned the pamphlet to the distributor.

The man told a reporter he was Kenneth J. Klinkert, an "atheist member of the Unitarian Church." He said he came here to work against Kennedy at his own expense from his home at Menomonee Falls, Wis. Kennedy's new treatment of the religious issue came with no prompting in his first appearance yesterday before about 400 supporters at a "coffee hour" at the Stonewall Jackson Hotel in Clarksburg.

Kennedy referred to the depressed state of the coal and other industries and the need for positive federal action to set in motion programs to place unemployed in areas of chronic unemployment.

"That's what is the problem."

Start in Ending Nuclear Race Might Offset G.O.P. Failures

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

© 1960 St. Louis Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, April 19.

IF PRESIDENT EISENHOWER can leave the White House having made even the smallest start—a token beginning—toward ending the nuclear arms race, then, in the verdict of history, commission may be outweighed. This is one of the elements in the complex play of forces centering around the effort to reach agreement with Soviet Russia on a system of inspection and control to end nuclear testing. In the emotions just below the surface, the drama is beginning to resemble 1919-20 when the Senate hardened against a treaty and a president and the certainty of ultimate tragedy and disaster was written into the record.

A subcommittee of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy is holding hearings on nuclear test detection. The avowed goal is to present as objectively as possible the scientific pros and cons of the compromise proposal now being considered at Geneva. Under that proposal all tests would be barred except small explosions below the earthquake register of 4.75. Research to detect these would go on during a moratorium.

BUT THERE IS a strong suspicion that the objective of certain committee members is to buttress their belief that no control and inspection system that Russia cannot cheat on is possible and that testing must go on for America's security. One observer with close committee ties predicted that the result would be to furnish material to this end.

In a private session recently, physicist Hans Bethe, a former member of the President's Science Advisory Committee and still a consultant of the committee, was berated for calling the Russian compromise proposal of March 19 "a major step forward in the test negotiations" and "provided the details can be cleared up—a suitable basis for a treaty."

Committee members accused him of having reached this judgment before seeing the text of the Soviet proposal. But Chairman Clinton Anderson had called it a "phony" two days before Bethe's statement and chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission was nearly as emphatic in his denunciation two days after the Bethe statement and before the text was available.

REPRESENTATIVE Chet Holifield, conducting the current hearings, along with Representative Melvin Price, is a man of great earnestness and good will who has devoted himself unsparringly to trying to master a subject so complex and difficult that the layman more often than not gets lost in the forest of technical details. Holifield last year held hearings into the consequences of nuclear war and the perils from fallout.

Yet so corrosive is the atmosphere of jealousy and sus-

De Gaulle Says A-Disarmament Is Summit Aim

French President Speaks at Luncheon Given by Canadian Premier.

By MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA, April 19 (AP).

FRENCH PRESIDENT Charles de Gaulle declared today one objective of next month's summit conference in Paris should be "at least a beginning to nuclear disarmament."

He outlined his views on the May 16 meeting at a luncheon given by Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker. Other objectives, De Gaulle said, should be an easing of East-West tensions and East-West co-operation in the development of needy nations.

De Gaulle spoke after a 40-minute private session with the Prime Minister on summit conference problems and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They scheduled a second meeting later in the day.

The objective of the Big Four meeting, De Gaulle said, is "peace, even though we realize that to achieve it, we must travel a long and difficult road."

The first step, he said, is the easing of tensions. He added this implies the avoidance of any Soviet threat in connection with "the problems of the German people."

"What is also involved," he said, "is at least a beginning to nuclear disarmament, starting with missiles and aircraft, which are the atomic carriers, and over which mutual control is still practicable."

"Finally, there must be organized a basis of co-operation to transcend political rivalries in the development of needy peoples."

At all events, France believes that the future of peace—and on this hinges survival—depends essentially upon the whole of Europe and upon America, which cradled modern civilization and are its main fountain springs.

De Gaulle declared further that the existence of opposing political systems "should not prevent peaceful coexistence."

Soviets Said to Be Able to Wage Big-Scale Chemical, Germ War

Nerve Gases, New Strains of Viruses Reported Out of Development Stage and Ready for Troops.

By Brig. Gen. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.

A PICTURE PUBLISHED last year showed a cat and mouse lying beside each other apparently in perfect amity. They had been given a whiff of a gas developed by the United States Army Chemical Corps.

These temporary incapacitating agents can be effective on man from one to 24 hours and cause no physical injury. A lethal dose would have to be from 100 to 1000 times as high as an incapacitating dose.

In a carefully controlled experiment with a platoon of soldiers, the gas, which is odorless and invisible, was allowed to drift to the platoon at drill.

Within a short time, four or five of the men stopped drill and sat down. The sergeant struggled for a time to carry on the drill, but he too succumbed, and sat down with the soldiers. "Some of the men appeared to be disoriented, others were cheerful, but just did not care about anything."

A LIEUTENANT came over to try to restore order and discipline, but pretty soon he gave up, not caring any more about the drill than anyone else.

The potentialities of such a weapon are obvious. No one is injured; they are completely normal when they recover. But while the effect lasts, enemy soldiers can come over, tie them up and take their guns. It is easy to imagine the Soviets making use of such a gas to quell a revolt or to win a minor war. The Soviets would never admit that a gas had been used. They would simply claim that the enemy soldiers had surrendered to join them.

Another type of incapacitating agent produces physical immobility like paralysis, anesthesia or narcosis. The existence of these two agents was made public in testimony March 15 by Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubs, chief Army chemical officer and members of his staff. The experiment with a platoon was not part of the testimony.

The Army Chemical Corps does not confine itself to investigating humane gases. Dr. William H. Summerson, deputy commander for scientific activities of the Chemical Research and Development Command, testified about the lethal properties of the materials being used.

"At one end of the scale," he said, "the effective dose for cyanide is approximately 70 milligrams per man, which represents as a liquid about two drops. The lethal dose to man of the nerve gas, G.B., is estimated to be one milligram, which is approximately one-fiftieth of a drop."

Letters from the People

As to the School Board

Before the Post-Dispatch takes a definite stand in favor of an appointed Board of Education as opposed to an elected board, I would like to suggest that it give its editorial readers a thoughtful and exhaustive run-down of the implications of abnegating citizen control of such an important tax-setting authority as a school board.

As a matter of fact, the more responsibilities the voters hand over to appointive authorities the less use they make of their American heritage of electing their policy-makers, and the nearer they are to becoming a defunct vestige of what an alert citizenry should be. For policymaking, elect; for administration, select.

If St. Louisans don't like their Board of Education, they can vote against candidates at any school election, any time they take the trouble to understand the issues involved and to meet the candidates running for office.

Let us give more consideration to the interval of the staggered terms of board members and the size of the board. These might be more important changes than the method of selection of board members.

Mrs. Gilbert Harris
Vice President and Education
Chairman, League of Women Voters of St. Louis

Inflation, or What?

I remember that a few years ago I bought one of those tiny unpainted turtles for my little friend for 10 cents. The other day I saw the same kind of turtles marked 49 cents per tiny creature. I am wondering why "production costs" of live turtles has increased so much.

"The Prince of the Turtle"

Basis for Mistrust

The views expressed by John R. Scott of Springfield, Ill., in his recent letter are a matter of grave concern, as they are unfortunately shared by many.

While I share his interest in the disarmament talks and the nuclear test ban discussions now going on in Geneva and hope, with him, for fruitful results, I could not disagree more with what appears to be his main thesis.

Mr. Scott said, "I urge that he (Secretary of State Rusk) take every possible step to ally the fear of the Soviet bloc that grips this country." Is it his belief that this is an irrational fear? In the light of Communist aggressions in Hungary and Korea, what fear could be more rational? In the light of what we know Communist aims to be, from the mouths of Lenin, Stalin and more recently Khrushchev, our anxiety and concern are firmly grounded on fact.

It is widely agreed that the surest and safest way to a just and lasting peace is through the development of a code of enforceable world law. But while we work in this direction we must not be so beguiled by our goal as to misjudge our Communist adversaries, who are determined to undermine us every step of the way.

Universal disarmament secured under the safeguards of enforceable world law—yes. Complete disarmament hazarded without inspection—no.

Eleanor B. Heffern

Census Pay

I would like to correct statements published and televised about the wages of the census takers, which were quoted as $12 to $30 a day.

I, among others, worked eight to 13 hours day and night to complete the job on time and do it right, and my payment amounts to 78 cents an hour. I am an experienced market research interviewer and feel that I did a good, fast job.

This complaint is not only mine but has also been voiced by everyone I know who has completed his work—and then and only then been told how much he earned—by a very complicated item-by-item system of payment.

A Census Taker

A Dissent on a Bird

I read your editorial page quite often, and appreciate the information to be derived from it, but I have a complaint to make. It is in regard to the cartoons, or caricatures, or whatever they are called, picturing Vice President Nixon as a bird with a man's face, and referring to him as "Dickie," or "Dickle Bird."

I think this is in very poor taste, to say the least, and unworthy of either Mr. Mauldin or of your newspaper. And I don't object simply because it involves Mr. Nixon, or because he is the Vice President of the United States. The thing just strikes me wrong.

Frank Thornberry

To Represent St. Louis

The typical St. Louis delegation to the Missouri House and Senate in recent years has tended generally to be negative, unimaginative and not too effective. On the House side especially the St. Louisans have been second-raters. With next Tuesday the final date for filing for party nomination for the Assembly seats that will be at stake this year, there is not much time left to persuade good candidates to get into the races.

One incumbent St. Louisian who faces a hard fight in the Democratic primary in August is the veteran Senator Edward J. Hogan, whose Seventh District lies largely in the city's Negro community from Ninth and O'Fallon streets to the western city line. A combination of conservative Negro politicians and labor union leaders is out to beat him. They are supporting Theodore D. McNeal, an international vice president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Senator Hogan has hardly been an ornament to the St. Louis delegation. He was the principal roadblock in several recent sessions to the Bi-State Development bill, he has been a friend of those who would promote betting on horse races in the state, and over the years he has worked hand-in-glove with the St. Louis politicians who have squelched efforts to give the city and its School Board the home rule powers they must have to improve efficiency. We are happy to see he has some opposition.

Senator William E. Hilsman, whose Third District includes substantial segments of the Negro community in Wards Eighteen and Twenty-six, is another who deserves a fight for the nomination and, if nominated, some genuine competition in November. A political hack—until recently he doubled in brass as Democratic committeeman from the Twenty-eighth Ward—Senator Hilsman also has been blind to the real needs of the city and the school system.

The same could be said for just about each of the 18 members of the House from St. Louis. All are Democrats. Each of the incumbents who files for renomination ought to be opposed in the primary if there is to be any hope in November of lifting the generally low level of the city's representation in the House.

The Republicans in particular ought to make an effort to persuade superior candidates to file for their party nomination. This is especially important in four South Side districts where they stand a reasonable chance of winning. They are the Third, now represented by Gregory L. Dunn; the Fourth (Dr. Luke A. Knese), the Fifth (Joseph W. Becker) and Sixth (Matthew T. Long).

Up until two years ago two of these districts, Representative Dunn's and Dr. Knese's, were in the hands of Republicans. The minority party also might have a reasonable hope of capturing the West End First District, now represented by Harry C. Raiffie. And a Republican organization not overlooking any bets would see to it that a top-notch candidate files in the Fourteenth District in north and northwest St. Louis. That district was represented in the last General Assembly by William A. Geary Jr.

What makes the complexion of St. Louis's delegation to the Legislature so important is that the city's senators and representatives hold the keys to necessary reforms of the School Board, which is wholly a creature of the Legislature, and of the city government, whose freedom is sharply limited by shackles fashioned in Jefferson City.

The incumbents, all Democrats, have largely ignored reform suggestions from Mayor Tucker. Instead they have spent their time running errands for members of the Democratic City Committee and for occupants of the city's "county" offices whose patronage employees get out the vote on election day. The only hope of changing this dreary picture is for first-rate candidates to file before the deadline next Tuesday.

Koreans Against Rhee

The government of Syngman Rhee is in a state of embarrassment over the violent demonstrations against it by students in at least five South Korean cities. It should be. President Rhee has barred the demonstrations but the students have defied the proscription, which is a tribute to their courage. They accuse the Rhee government of rigging the March 15 election that returned the President to office. Rioting and police brutality accompanied the voting.

The latest demonstration in Seoul occurred shortly after a group of United States officials had departed after making arrangements for President Eisenhower's visit June 22. Rhee's authoritarian regime is now under pressure to quiet the opposition before Mr. Eisenhower arrives, but if this is accomplished by force it will merely support the position of the students.

The visit of Mr. Eisenhower will confirm United States confidence in Rhee. It will not serve to enhance the prestige of the United States in the Far East, where Rhee has few friends. It is to be hoped the State Department has considered all the aspects of Mr. Eisenhower's visit. It could be embarrassing all around.

Emphasis on Mobile Defense

Britain has acted quickly and decisively in shifting its defense planning to the mobile ballistic missile. Until these weapons become operational, Britain will depend on big bombers for deterrent power—and, of course, on the deterrent power of the United States.

In abandoning its 2500-mile Blue Streak, which would require a fixed site, Britain is trying to leapfrog to the second generation ballistic missiles which would be mobile on land and sea and in the air. Fortunately Britain has spent only $182,000,000, about a tenth of the planned Blue Streak program.

The United States has spent well over two billion dollars on its first-generation ballistic missile program, only to decide that Atlases sitting on unprotected ground are too vulnerable. Now preparations are being made to install them in deep pits surrounded by small lakes of concrete. But just recently new flight tests and calculations indicated Soviet and American ICBMs, instead of having a circular error probability on target of several miles, have only a two-mile error. If, as seems likely, this error is cut in the next three years to one mile, a hardened base might be little better than a soft base.

Britain is not counting on the hardened base. The British move emphasizes that whatever lacks mobility cannot be protected and whatever cannot be protected cannot give much defense against surprise attack. The vulnerability of planes on their bases and of missiles on fixed sites affords strong support for testimony before the Congress that our Strategic Air Command be given capability for an airborne alert until mobile missiles are in operation.

Wiretaps, Right or Wrong?

The question of the legality of wiretap evidence in state criminal prosecutions has been further confused by a 4-1 decision in the United States Court of Appeals in New York sanctioning the use of such evidence in a New York state court. Wiretaps are legal under New York law, if made by the police with the sanction of a court. But such evidence may not be introduced in a federal court since the Federal Communications Act makes it a crime to divulge wiretap evidence. Recently the Supreme Court held that Congress intended to bar such evidence, regardless of source.

Quite aside from the widespread distaste for wiretapping, and the feeling that it would be better to have an occasional wrongdoer escape than to have all telephone conversations subject to police monitoring, this issue involves the question of whether legal immunities—such as those provided by the Constitution—should not be as binding on state as on federal courts. In other words, can a state deny rights which are enjoyed by an individual as a citizen of the United States?

The Supreme Court, despite a long line of vigorous dissents, actually has maintained such a double standard of citizenship. It has held some provisions of the Constitution to be binding on the states and others to be not binding. This has put the Court to great difficulty when confronted with the necessity of deciding whether a state trial had been fair or not.

The latest New York decision undoubtedly will be carried to the Supreme Court. Many lawyers are inclined to conjecture that it may be upheld by a 5-4 decision. Be that as it may, the prosecutors who favor the use of wiretaps still are pushing for legislation by which Congress would specifically legalize them. This indicates how questionable the practice is from a legal standpoint. It is even more questionable from the viewpoint of a decent regard for privacy. Perhaps Congress should pass a law, but not the one the prosecutors want.

New Leaf for the Birds

Tonight we intend to let bygones be bygones. We are going to the ball park to buy a score card, a frankfurter and a beer, and to size up the Cardinals and their 1960 prospects.

The triumphs of the grapefruit circuit and the malfunctions on the Pacific Coast are strictly out of mind. After all, they happened before President Eisenhower made his round-trip air hop to Washington to throw the first ball. So they don't count.

So far as we are concerned, the Redbirds are starting on a brand new leaf. Further, we will be satisfied with no-hit pitching and a homer an inning—well, anything good enough to win, and let us dream this night of the pennant.

Plight of an Underdog

Senator Kennedy may be quite shrewd in exploiting the "stop-Kennedy" coalition in West Virginia. The Senator knows that everybody loves an underdog. In the Democratic presidential race to date he has been very much an underdog, but if he can wring enough hearts by claiming a gang-up against him by supporters of rival candidates, he might offset some of the disadvantages of the front runner.

As for us, we find it impossible to weep over Senator Kennedy's plight. That there is something unfair and unsatisfactory about a primary system which enables the supporters of several candidates to unite against another candidate is certainly true. But this is not the only shortcoming of the system. It is also unfair and unsatisfactory that the system permits an attractive vote-getter by running in a few unrepresentative states to generate a great deal of convention strength primarily on the basis of personality and glamour rather than substantive qualifications for the presidency.

Senator Kennedy cannot fairly make use of those defects in the primary system which benefit his candidacy without accepting the defects that work against him. Since he chose to play by the rules of this game, and has actually done quite well at it, he can have no real complaint when others score a point or two. Just as he cannot expect to reap the harvest of pro-Catholic votes in Wisconsin without accepting the burden of the anti-Catholic vote in West Virginia, so he cannot expect to use the primary system for its advantages to him without manfully enduring its disadvantages as well.

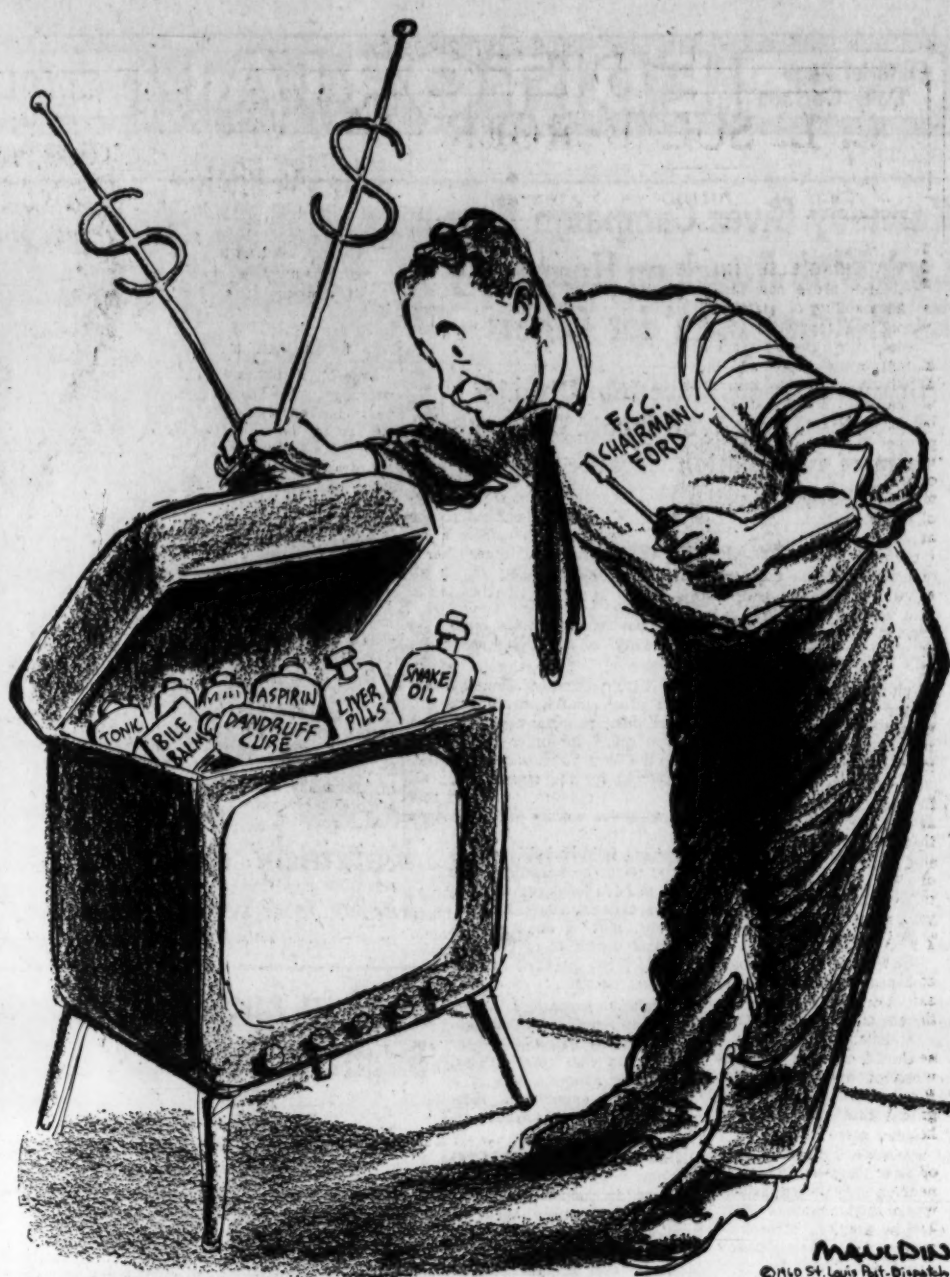

Sedition, Southern Style

The folly of state demands to punish treason is illustrated by a campaign by the Citizens' Councils in the South to apply sedition laws to "sit-down" demonstrators. "Let us not mince words," says the monthly paper, Citizens' Council; "the 'sit-down' Negro demonstrators are engaged in a seditious conspiracy against the state and municipal governments of the Southern states."

Before the Southern states can use their sedition laws, however, they must overcome the effect of a 1956 United States Supreme Court ruling in the Nelson case. The court held that the Federal Government had intended to "occupy the field" in the control of subversion with the Smith Act and similar laws; that the states could not punish sedition. Sedition and treason are crimes against the whole nation, not against parts of it.

Many states were dissatisfied with this ruling and last year the House passed a measure to restore the states' power to prosecute for sedition. Led by Senator Eastland of Mississippi, the Senate Judiciary Committee later approved the bill. But if the Senate were to pass it finally, what would happen? Southern states might, as the Citizens' Councils demand, jail Negroes demonstrating for equal rights, just as South Africa has done.

Twisting an appeal for civil rights into grounds for treason is just one possible result of allowing the states to define sedition. We cannot imagine the Senate permitting such illogic and such injustice.

Forand Bill Has Weaknesses

But Some Plan for Medical Aid to Aged Is Held Necessary

An Editorial in
The Milwaukee Journal

The Forand bill to provide hospital care and related benefits to all who retire on social security pensions has many weak spots.

It would provide health aid for all elderly social security beneficiaries regardless of need. It would be extremely costly—at least $1 billion the first year and substantially more later on. It could swamp our hospital facilities. It would not help the elderly with lowest incomes, those who are not eligible for social security benefits.

Yet sidetracking the Forand bill, along with President Eisenhower's recent veto of a recommendation that the Administration sponsor some sort of medical aid for the elderly, will not make the health problems of retired —Post-Dispatch, Aug. 5, 1938.

Strange Partnership

folks disappear. Statistics help explain why. According to the Senate subcommittee on aged and aging, people over 65 who enter hospitals stay an average of 15 days, twice as long as the average patient in all age groups. In the five years ended in 1958, health expenses for the elderly went up 74 per cent whereas those for the general population increased 42 per cent. Many people can get by on a small pension but be pauperized by a hospital stay of even moderate duration.

People past 65 are becoming so numerous that their health needs cannot be ignored, either on political or humanitarian grounds.

Publications as conservative in outlook as Business Week and U.S. News & World Report predict that government health aid for the elderly will be forthcoming—and soon. The medical profession's continued use of "socialized medicine" frightens fewer people right along.

While the Forand bill is held in abeyance, conflicting data on the health status of the elderly ought to be clarified. Plans then could be geared toward meeting the real needs and coping with catastrophic illness rather than making hospital care automatically available for all on social security.

Iowa View of the Memorial From The Des Moines Register

If Thomas Jefferson had been as slow to act on completion of the Louisiana Purchase, back in 1803, as recent Presidents and members of Congress have been in memorializing Jefferson's decision, the vast midlands of this country might still be a possession of France.

The motivations were different, of course. Jefferson saw an opportunity to remove a foreign barrier to the westward expansion of the young nation he had helped found. He was looking years ahead with a vision that must then have seemed almost impossible of achievement.

The matter of providing funds for completion of a national memorial park commemorating the Louisiana Purchase and the opening of the West at St. Louis involves no national urgency. Measured by any practical standard of contribution to growth and development of the United States, the completion of this memorial might well be left to the philanthropic efforts of history-minded citizens of St. Louis.

After all, the greatest monument to Thomas Jefferson and his foresightedness stands in the thriving cities, the rich and productive farm lands, the busy transportation arteries and thriving factories throughout the entire Mississippi river basin.

By comparison, a 40-acre riverside park and a memorial monument marking the site of the transfer of title to 825,192 square miles of some of the world's richest land are little more than an exclamation point at the end of a thousand pages of exciting history.

Nevertheless, we think there is real value in creating physical reminders of historic events. There is too much temptation in these fast-moving times to view the past as past rather than remembering that the past is the prologue to the future.

The people of St. Louis have demonstrated admirable enthusiasm in their efforts to commemorate the opening of the West and the event that made it possible. They have raised nearly $8,000,000 to be added to federal funds for development of the park. Completion of the project is now in sight after a quarter of a century, if Congress comes through with $4,603,125 this year.

It isn't a matter of starting a new project. It is merely a matter of finishing one that was begun a quarter of a century ago.

We think it ought to be completed with no more delay.

Between Book Ends The Last Word

THE CREATION OF WOMAN, by Theodore Reik. (George Braziller; 159 pp., $3.75.)

In this "Psychoanalytic Inquiry Into the Myth of Eve," Dr. Reik endeavors to bring understanding to the meaning in the two interpretations in Genesis (I, 26, 27 and II, 7, 21-24) of woman's creation.

According to anthropological researches of recent years, certain primitive tribes have something parallel to modern belief in resurrection. From woman was drawn some item, and the tribe's god, be it crocodile or mountain, fashioned man.

Dr. Reik thinks that the compilers of the Bible and ancient Talmudic scholars have taken such myths and fashioned something in reverse to satisfy the evolution of the myth's meaning as it occurred at their time. Thus, Adam's rib was fashioned into Eve.

In his own Jewish background the author can illustrate some psychic insights which reversed the Old Testament's treatment. The "how" of these insights is not simple but in his insights of writing it, the complexity becomes clear and definitive to his point. And his point is that archeological psychoanalysis, which this book is, will cast light on the earliest traditions of the Bible and may offer clues as to the origin of its people.

There is no full and complete answer to wondering about stories and meanings of the origins of people because, as the last sentence of the book has it, "... Everybody knows that inevitably woman has the last word."

PATTERNS OF ETHICS IN AMERICA TODAY, edited by F. Ernest Johnson. (Harper, 167 pp., $3.)

This is a companion volume to "Patterns of Faith" and is a symposium of lectures by six distinguished authors interpreting the significant trends of ethical thought in America. The ethics of the three main traditions of Protestantism, Catholicism and Judaism are explored as well as the Ethical Cultural Movement, Rational Ethics, and Ethical Frontiers.

In these rather sober days of apparent ethical and moral laxity it behooves every thoughtful citizen to search for a better understanding and application of a social ethical platform. "Patterns of Ethics" provides much food for thought as well as illuminating comparisons of the three main ethical forces in America.

John M. Keeling

THE GREAT INVASION, by Jacob Hoke. (Yoseloff, 613 pp., $8.50.)

Told by a contemporary Pennsylvania, living at Chambersburg only a few miles from the great battlefield, this description of the great conflict at Gettysburg displays the immediacy of reporting and the realistic involvement of an eye-witness account.

Jacob Hoke saw the Confederate advance guard ride into Pennsylvania in Robert E. Lee's great gamble which failed; he felt the rise and fall of battle fortunes; he talked with Union and Rebel officers right after the decisive engagement. For years he collected all the papers, official and private, to which he had access. He toured the still bloody and upturned ground. He stood within a few feet of Abraham Lincoln when he uttered the eloquent and immortal words of the memorial address. Then he published this book in 1887—which now reappears for the centennial year still in its original format and typographical dress in this reprint.

No matter how many times you've read of Gettysburg, of Little Round Top and the deadly Orchard, of the last desperate Confederate charge, this is a new and fresh narrative which you'll want to range from page to page. It's as lively as today's front-page, as timeless as human fear and hope.

Science Outmodes Statecraft

LE CASTELLET, France.

IF NOTHING ELSE, THE NEGOTIATIONS now taking place in Geneva prove how far behind the ingenuity of scientists the adaptability of statesmen lags. For, while lawyers haggle about the territorial limits of sea space, man-made satellites whiz through the air space above each other's lands.

And while diplomats bicker about inspection to insure disarmament, Tirois I, first of a series of air-borne cameras, photographs and inspects this earth. Suddenly we discover that old-fashioned approaches to international problems are totally outmoded by the exploding pace of science.

Sulzberger

Diplomacy has moved into outer space while diplomats argue power politics in terrestrial terms with the nicety of sixteenth century Venetian custom and the logic of ancient Roman law.

Thus, at one Geneva parley we find earnest delegations seeking agreement that sovereignty over the waters bordering a nation shall be advanced beyond the traditional three-mile limit fixed by the range of cannon shots 200 years ago.

2 Satellites in Orbit.

But no one has yet posed the corollary question—what is the extent of national sovereignty in the air above?

Until World War I and the first aerial bombardments, everyone was content to follow the law of Rome that "he who owns the ground owns everything to the heavens and the depths."

Since then a large body of legal opinion informally concluded that national rights in the air cease where gravity ceases to apply. There is no international agreement on this.

Yet at this very moment 12 satellites, nine American and three Soviet, whirl through celestial space, some most certainly within the gravitational pull.

Pictures in the Air.

Thus, while we attempt still to define where oceans become free and where they belong to a single government, we ignore the pressing problem of the air.

Russia objects to allied aircraft flying to Berlin above an altitude of 10,000 feet. But Tirois I is already photographing Russia from a far more distant height and we can assume that Tirois II or III or IV will soon be adding further details.

JANE PETTUS SHOWS
OILS, INK DRAWINGSWorks of St. Louis Artist on Exhibit at Fairmont Hotel.

By GEORGE MCUE

Jane M. Pettus, who has been painting in St. Louis for some years but exhibits infrequently, is having her first one-man show. The exhibition of oils and ink drawings is installed in a large space formerly occupied by a night club at the Fairmont Hotel, at Euclid and Maryland avenue, where it will be on view through April 27.

Mrs. Pettus, the wife of Thomas W. Pettus, a steel company executive, is largely self-taught as a painter. Some of her work has been done in association with Wallace Herndon Smith, and her entries in past exhibitions often have contained echoes of the palette and the style of that more seasoned artist. The present show brings to light a new independence and a more free working of paint.

The artist undoubtedly is at her best in a series on Jamaican themes, which are pervaded with a warmth of observation. "Standing Woman," seen in flickering light, is particularly felicitous in its partly turned figure in brown tones, crowned with a pink kerchief.

"Miss Hennie," a Jamaican woman shown rather severely dressed in her Sunday best, is given a prim charm, and the figures of a boy and girl in "Jamaica" partake of the indigenous tropical quality of the palm leaves among which they stand.

These paintings, and several still lifes of serenely lyrical mood, are done in thin glazes and washes of oil on white canvas, which gives them the spontaneity of watercolor technique. The canvas is exploited, both as white and as a means of heightening the dark tones.

Another aspect of Mrs. Pettus's painting has to do with the theme of man in his world, in a search, it would seem, for a meaning deeper than that of outward appearances.

In this the paintings are uneven. There is a profundity of understanding in the loneliness of "Small Boy," which shows a youngster seated on a bed, with hands clasped about his ankles and his dark eyes large with a kind of bewilderment. A group of people at a cocktail party, some with faces seen close up, brings out the vacuity of the proceedings with astringent comment.

But a work titled "A.D. 1960," with a man figure superimposed on mechanistic structures, revives the sort of WPA mural symbolism of the 1930s that has been getting a well-merited rest.

'Marshal' Law in Town

JOHN BROMFIELD, television actor and star of 1960 Police Circus, who arrived in St. Louis last night for series of appearances before circus opens Thursday. Circus will continue through May 1 at Arena.

"Departure," a low-key conception of Hungarian refugees walking in line across a desolate countryside, has the communicative directness and draftsmanship of a newspaper editorial cartoon, but its wan women and child, bleak landscape are used, again, as pictorial symbols, and they engage the attention on that level alone.

Drawings in the show, more in the spirit of the Jamaica paintings, are quite pleasing. The large room, which has been redecorated and fitted with good lighting, makes an excellent picture gallery. A one-man show by Howard Jones will open there May 8.

'MY FAIR LADY' GETS OVATION IN MOSCOW OPENING

MOSCOW, April 19 (UPI)—A capacity Russian audience, including many who could not speak a word of English, gave a 10-minute ovation last night to Broadway's "My Fair Lady."

An estimated 1800 persons in Moscow's Red Army theater clapped and cheered so wildly and so often that much of the dialogue and some of the singing was lost.

For many of the Russians, words were incidental anyway. They did not know any English but were thrilled by the music, dancing, dazzling sets and costumes.

At the end of the show, the first American musical comedy to reach Russia, the ovation was punctuated by shouts of "bravo" and "bis," Russian for encore.

The cast, headed by Lola Fisher as the Cockney flower vendor, Eliza Doolittle, and Edward Mulhare as Prof. Henry Higgins, who teaches her the King's English, came back for five curtain calls.

Dr. Raymond P. Keesecker Dies. CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—Dr. Raymond P. Keesecker, editor of the Journal of the American Osteopathic Association, died Sunday of a cerebral thrombosis. He was 68 years old.

ST. LOUIS U. $50,000

An unrestricted $50,000 gift has been received by St. Louis University from Jerome F. Tegeler, senior partner in the investment firm of Dempsey-Tegeler and Co., it was announced yesterday.

The Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert S.J., president of the university, said the gift would be used in the priority needs phase of the university's 150th anniversary development program.

Tegeler, a 1929 graduate of the St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance, is chairman of the alumni appeal division of the development program, which is seeking funds for capital and operational expansion of the university.

He also is a member of the executive committee of the university's development council. A goal of $18,000,000 is sought in the five-year priority needs campaign. The long-range, 10-year development program goal is $46,000,000.

S. HERBERT HARE, PLANNER
FOR MANY CITIES, IS DEAD

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19 (AP)—S. Herbert Hare, city planner and landscape architect, died at his home yesterday after a long illness. He was 72 years old.

He had served in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City, Lawrence, Kan., Topeka, Kan., and other cities. He designed Longview, Wash., built by Long-Bell Lumber Co.

At one time he served simultaneously on state planning boards of Missouri, Kansas and Iowa.

BEARDSLEY RUMI,
'IDEA MAN,' DIESOriginated Withholding Tax Plan; Was a Director of 8 Firms.

DANBURY, Conn., April 19 (AP)—Beardsley Rumi, originator of the pay-as-you-go withholding tax plan, died in Danbury Hospital yesterday. He was 65 years old.

One of the nation's most productive "idea men," Mr. Rumi suffered a heart attack a week ago at his home in West Redding, Conn. He died of complications that developed.

Mr. Rumi was a former board chairman of R. H. Macy & Co. department stores and former board chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. At the time of his death he was director of eight companies and an adviser to the commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

He conceived the idea of paying income tax on the installment plan while riding on a train. A modified version of his idea became law in 1943.

He also thought up the domestic allotment plan for farm relief in the Agricultural Adjustment act of 1933, which was part of the New Deal program. Once a registered Republican, Mr. Rumi supported the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and later became a fund-raiser for the Democrats.

Born in Cedar Rapids, Ia., Mr. Rumi was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Dartmouth College. He received a Ph.D. degree two years later from the University of Chicago.

In World War I, he left his job as an instructor at the Carnegie Institute of Technology to serve as civilian director of the Army's trade tests. From 1931 to 1933, he was dean of the Social Science division at the University of Chicago.

The Macy's stores hired Mr. Rumi as treasurer in 1934. He became board chairman in 1945 and retired in 1949.

He was the author of several books. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lois Treadwell Rumi; a daughter, Mrs. John Doyle of Colchester, England, and two sons, Treadwell, of Chicago, and Alvin, of West Redding.

Finland's Champion, Paavo Kotila, Wins Boston Marathon

McKenzie, New York, Is Second

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—Paavo Kotila, 32-year-old Finn, ran away with the sixty-fourth Boston A.A. marathon today.

He set a record breaking pace most of the way but eased up—apparently for lack of competition—and finished 49 seconds off the record set in 1957.

Twice national champion in his own country, Kotila along the route had clipped seconds off the mark set in 1957 by Johnny Kelley, 29-year-old Groton, Conn., school teacher. But as he neared the finish he slowed up and even walked the last few yards.

His time was 2:20:54. Kelley's mark in 1957 was 2:20:05.

Gordon McKenzie of New York's Pioneer Club was second. He was timed in 2:22:18.

In third place was Jimmy Green, Saugus, Mass., school teacher. His time was 2:23:37.

Alfred Confalone of Wakefield, Mass., was fourth in 2:26:30.

Lt. Alexander Breckenridge of the Marines, a former two-mile record holder at Villanova, led the pack in record time at the first two checking stations at Framingham, 6.5 miles out, and Natick, 9.5 miles from the start. Kotila took over at this point and increased his lead as the runners moved through Wellesley and Woodland Park and headed up "Heart Break Hill" by Boston College and down to Lake street.

Johnny Kelley moved up to second place at Wellesley but could not improve his position and fell back going up the long hill.

Following Confalone in fourth place at the finish were:

5. Veikko Koivumaki, another Finn, 2:28:30.

6. Lt. Alex Breckenridge, Quantico, Va., 2:28:44.

7. Robert A. Carman, Pittsburgh, 2:29:06.

8. Robert Cons, Culver City, Calif., 2:30:39.

9. Thomas C. Ryan, Long Beach, Calif., 2:32:49.

10. Robert Drake, Culver City A.C., Calif., 2:34:12.

Kelley, who has been among the leaders in this event for several years, did not finish today.

18-Year-Old Bowls 716 in Loop Match

Ken Rohlfing, an 18-year-old bowler, totalled 716, second best in the league this season, in last night's round of the Cone Herman Memorial League at Du-Bowl Lanes. Rohlfing had games of 239, 229 and 248. His team, the Palm Bows, won three from Sun Crest.

Other results: O'Dells 2, Vita-Cee 1; Pepsi Cola 3, South Side Business Men 1; Roncaros 3, Turners 0. Tony Krenz of the O'Dells, had a high single of 268. The O'Dell team had 1075 and 3020 for high single and high three.

O'Fallon Victor

O'Fallon Tech won from St. Mary's, 128-56 to 66-14, in a high school track meet on the winner's field. O'Fallon won the senior competition, 72-37, and the junior, 56-54 to 29-16. Bill Agnew, O'Fallon senior, won the high hurdles, 880-yard run and broad jump, while Burton Henri took the 100, pole vault and ran on the 880-yard relay team. Robert Rembert, O'Fallon junior, was the victor in the low hurdles, 220 dash, high jump and ran on the 880 relay team.

Lane Keeps Them Coming and Going

Teammates on the Cleveland Indians for about 24 hours, HERB SCORE (left) and HARVEY KUENN mix their hellos and goodbys. Kuenn was obtained by the Indians Sunday in trade for Rocky Colavito (who went to Detroit); Score was shipped to the Chicago White Sox Monday in exchange for Barry Latman. The deals were made for Cleveland by General Manager Frank Lane.

Fan Complaint: No Rocky, No Score and No Beer

CLEVELAND, April 19 (AP)—Out on St. Clair Avenue they hanged Frank Lane in effigy and laid out a likeness of Joe Gordon on a slab.

This was the way the habitués of the Pointview Grill showed how they felt about the trade in which Lane, Cleveland Indians' general manager, sent slugger Rocky Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn. Gordon backed Lane up on his decision to trade the popular Colavito.

While fans protested bitterly against Sunday's Colavito-Kuenn deal, Lane drew little criticism for yesterday's trade of southpaw Herb Score to the Chicago White Sox for righthander hurler Barry Latman.

The sports department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, swamped Sunday with telephone calls, said the early callers opposed the Colavito-Kuenn trade by 9 to 1. This ratio changed yesterday to 4-1.

On the Herb Score trade,

Goalby Fifth Highest Golf Money Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla., April 19 (AP)—Arnold Palmer, winner of five golf tournaments and $44,300 this season, leads the pros in the money earned category.

The weekly standings issued by the Professional Golfers Association yesterday showed Palmer, who plays out of Ligonier, Pa., has garnered the prize money by entering 13 tournaments and finishing in the top five eight times.

Ken Venturi was second with $23,300 won in eight tournaments. Dow Finsterwald came next with $21,800 earned in 10 events.

The other leading money winners:

Jack Fleck, $13,800; Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla., formerly of Belleville, Ill., $13,200; Bill Casper Jr., $12,700; Fred Hawkins, $12,300; Jerry Barber, $10,900; and Julius Boros, $10,500.

5...15...25 Years Ago

1935—The Cardinals decided to drop Vic Raschi, veteran pitcher who started for the Yankees. . . . The Detroit Piffers took the lead in the A.B.C. by bowling 3136 at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Barney Schulz and Frank Smith starred in relief as the Cardinals downed the Reds, 6-5, in 11 innings.

1945—The Browns' Nelson Potter lost a tough 1-0 game to the Tigers' Alton Benton. . . . Walker Cooper, ordered to report for induction later in the month, had four hits and George Kurowski drove in four runs for the Cardinals, 8-2 victors at Chicago behind Harry Brecheen's seventh-inning pitching. . . . Playing Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, 38, suffered a fracture of the right leg when he tripped over the second-base bag.

1955—Dolph Camilli of the Phillies hit four homers in the first two days of the season. . . . The Cardinals got only one hit off the Pirates' Darrell Blanton and lost, 1-0. . . . Jess Willard, then 47, said: "If I couldn't whip a clown like Max Baer (then the champion), I'd never admit I was a fighter." Willard relinquished his heavyweight title to Jack Dempsey in 1919.

Basilio Says He'll Challenge Winner Of Title Contest

OGDEN, Utah, April 19 (AP)—Carmen Basilio said yesterday he will challenge the winner of the Gene Fullmer-Joejey Giardello fight and "let the future take care of itself."

Basilio, the former world welterweight and middleweight champ from Syracuse, N. Y., stopped here enroute to Bozeman, Mont., where Fullmer will defend the National Boxing Association middleweight title Wednesday.

Fullmer won the title in a fight with Basilio last Aug. 28 after the NBA had taken the crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

Ingo, Floyd Will Sign Thursday

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson officially will sign contracts Thursday morning for the return fight at the Polo Grounds, June 20 or 22.

Originally, the signing had been set for tomorrow. No reason was given for the change in time.

The announcement, made today by Feature Sports, Inc., promoters of the fight, said the signings will take place at the Boxing Commission office Thursday, April 21 at 9 a.m. (St. Louis time). It is presumed that the State Athletic Commission, which was to have scanned the contracts today, has approved the match.

Johansson, who arrived here yesterday from Switzerland, had expressed pleasure over the original announcement which had set the earlier signings.

"From what I understand," he said, "everything is supposed to be settled but the actual signing. I want to fly back to Switzerland quick and start hard training."

The champion was not available for comment regarding the change which obviously would necessitate a delay in departure.

Mulloy and Patty Gain Doubles Title

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, April 19 (UPI)—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, won the men's doubles title in the Monte Carlo tennis tournament yesterday when one of their Spanish opponents twisted his ankle and had to quit.

Spaniards Andres Gimeno and Alberto Arilla were making a real fight for the "Butler Trophy" when the accident happened. They were leading 11-10 in the opening set and Gimeno was serving in the twenty-second game when Arilla twisted his ankle at the net.

Arilla limped on with a bandaged ankle, but when the American veterans took a 12-11 lead the Spaniards defaulted.

Gimeno won the men's singles title by beating Britain's Mike Davies, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Susi Kormoczy, the Hungarian champion, won the women's singles by defeating Lola Ramirez of Mexico, 6-3, 6-2.

Weaver to Emphasize Defense at K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan., April 19 (AP)—Kansas State opens spring football practice today with 60 players.

New Coach Doug Weaver hopes to complete the allocated 20 drills within 23 days.

"We'll work every day it doesn't rain," Weaver said.

Weaver said he would concentrate on defense because it's "the quickest way to find boys with real football instinct. The quicker we know who wants to play, the better off we'll be."

Weaver came to his new job in January. He was an assistant coach at the University of Missouri.

down on Pestalozzi shouldn't get panicky and make hasty decisions or hurried deals. Manager Hemus has shown more qualities of leadership in defeat than in victory. Big Boss Gussie Busch's publicly proclaimed understanding last night was reassuring.

If the Cardinal players will only display the confidence the Mighty Mouse had in himself as a competitor and has in his athletes, the Redbirds will overcome that slow start.

The tortoise has caught the hare many times in baseball, where the 154-game race is built for the determined distance runner, not the short-winded sprinter.

The Wood Memorial

NEW YORK, April 19—The Wood Memorial Stakes is a race for three-year-old horses carrying 126 pounds over a mile and an eighth for $75,000 disgorged, more-or-less willingly, by the New York Racing Association, Inc. It is also something of a paradox, though this is no great distinction in a game that calls itself the Sport of Kings and doesn't get a tumble as the sport of Presidents.

The Wood is 35 years old and has had 38 winners, having been run in two divisions on three occasions. Of these, only six have gone on to win the Kentucky Derby and three took the Triple Crown. Fourteen years have passed since a winner of the Wood succeeded at Churchill Downs, yet this doesn't affect the race's position as New York's chief qualifying test for Derby candidates. At least four winners out of five go to the post in Louisville as the first or second choice.

This year may be an exception, for it now seems likely that the Derby favorites will be chosen from a group already training in Kentucky—Bally Ache, Tompion, Weatherwise and maybe one of the Calumets.

That doesn't mean, however, that Saturday's field at Aqueduct won't include a sleeper destined to blow them all down in Louisville. The last Wood winner to score in Kentucky was Assault in 1946, and if he wasn't a sleeper, he was decidedly somnolent. He paid $19.70 in the Wood and $18.40 in the Derby on his way to the Triple Crown.

Beauty-Sleeper

There's a faint suspicion beginning to spread along the back stretch that if there's a sleeper like Assault in this Wood Memorial it might be a critter named Never Give In, who wended a few heavily-lidded eyes by working a mile in 1:39.2-5. You'd have to call this one a beauty-sleeper for he's owned by Miss Elizabeth Arden.

Never Give In is royally bred. He's by Never Say Die, who won the 1954 English Derby for Robert Sterling Clark, an American, who did all his racing abroad. The dam is Myrtle Charm, as fine a mare as 'Miss Arden' ever had, daughter of the gallant little Alsab and a granddaughter of Equipoise. Myrtle Charm was the 1940-year-old filly champion of 1948.

Evidently Never Give In takes kindly to life at Aqueduct. He has scored two good victories there this year, though not in stakes.

The race track is a great place for frustrated Einsteins, who get some sort of soul-glow out of computing speed ratings based on running times, track conditions, weight assignments and so on. Some

Hennessey Takes Lead In Pin Meet

Tom Hennessey of the Boonweiser bowling team, took over first place in the scratch division of the fifth annual four-game classic at Fairmont Bowl in Collinsville with a score of 896.

There are six more weeks of competition in the tourney. The low score in the money at present is 838. The top prize in each division is $1200.

Hennessey rolled games of 180, 253, 218 and 245. Jerry Tharp (891) of St. Louis, fell to second place. Ray Bluth (865), Hennessey's teammate on the Buds, is third, and Lee Steiger, of Alton, is fourth with 860.

In the handicap division, Paul Roman of Staunton, leads with 906. Art O'Donnell, St. Louis, is runner-up with 896, and Andrew Duvario, of St. Louis, and Pete Santagato, of Granite City, are tied for third with 893 each.

Joan Bria of Bethalto, leads in the women's bracket with 837.

Three Teams Fight For Second Place In Champions League

The three-team struggle for second place in the B.P.A. Champions Traveling League will continue at Ray Holmes Bowl, Grand and St. Louis, at 9 o'clock tonight.

In the feature match the Falstaffs (43-32) will oppose the Willens (42-33). The Cliff Antons, 42-33, will meet the Emges (37-38), who took three games from the Falstaffs a week ago.

The Budweisers, already certain of the championship, will bowl the Benders. In the remaining match, the Leonards will oppose the Rabens.

Dick Weber, of the Buds, leads the league's individuals with a 218 average. Teammates Don Carter, 211, and Ray Bluth, 208, are next.

Ireland Wins Race

GOODWOOD, England, April 19 (UPI)—Innes Ireland, driving a Lotus Climax, won the 100-mile Glover Trophy auto race Monday in one hour and 14.8 seconds. Stirling Moss, who set a lap record of 2.6 seconds for the 2.4-mile circuit, placed second in a Cooper Climax.

'Bad-Boy' Giardello Ready for Fullmer; Title Bout Tomorrow

BOZEMAN, Mont., April 19 (UPI)—Joey Giardello, one of boxing's bad boys, gets a long denied title chance tomorrow, and the Brooklyn middleweight was confident today that he wouldn't miss cashing in against NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

"I've got peace of mind," he said, "for the first time since maybe 1954. I've got time to win. I'm in the best condition I've been in for maybe five years, and I don't see how I can lose."

Giardello, 29, twice previously lost chances at the middleweight crown. Once he withdrew from a bout with champion Carl (Bo-Bo) Olson because an injured knee stiffened up.

The second time he was not permitted to go through with an Olson fight because he was under charges of assault and battery in 1954, following a scrap between a group of his friends and a filling station attendant. He eventually served nearly four months of a six-to-18-month sentence in the case.

"I Didn't Hit the Guy" I've had a lot of troubles," he said, "come of them not of my own doing. I didn't hit the guy in Philadelphia. I swear I didn't."

Some of his other troubles stemmed from his ring activity. In 1952 he had to file suit to confirm a victory over Billy Graham. The suit followed action by New York boxing commissioners changing a judge's decision. In 1957 after Willie Vaughn was given a split decision over him, the boxing commission found one score card incorrectly marked and ruled the contest "no decision."

There were other cases for traffic violations, disorderly conduct and minor offenses. But Giardello now is not the fighter of six years ago, mentally at least.

Physically he may be the equal, maybe better. "I weigh 158½ today," he said. "That's the best weight I've had in may be seven years.

"I've fought guys like Fullmer before. I know his style, and he won't change it. I hope he tries to outbox me, but he won't do that. He might confuse me for one round, but I've been around long enough to catch on in that time."

Trained 10½ Weeks
Giardello, who has lost 17 times in 106 fights, said he has "never worked harder" to get ready for a fight. I've boxed over 100 rounds and done over 100 miles of roadwork. I've been training for 10½ weeks, and usually I trained for two."

For the last three and one-half weeks, he's been working out at nearby Livingston, Mont., and he's become the favorite of the 10,000-odd citizens. "If prayers will be any good," he said, "I can't lose. These people have been sending me rosaries and religious mementos and praying for me."

Fullmer, who will be defending his National Boxing Assn. title, not recognized in New York and Massachusetts, was a 5-2 favorite despite Giardello's optimism.

He won the world crown previously with a decision over Sugar Ray Robinson, then lost it when Robinson knocked him out in a return match, the only time he has ever been stopped. He won NBA recognition Aug. 28 when he stopped Carmen Basilio in 14 rounds and defended successfully once, a 15-round decision over Spider Webb Dec. 4.

Lewis Quits As Coach at W. Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 19 (AP)—The athletic council's acceptance of Art (Pappy) Lewis' resignation as West Virginia football coach is expected within a few days.

Scrappy Pappy, climaxing a long-standing feud with members of the council, announced yesterday he was quitting to join the scouting and coaching staff of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League.

In a parting shot he suggested the council should also quit. "They should do this to give the new coach a chance," he said.

University President Elvis J. Stahr immediately announced Gene Corum, an assistant to Lewis throughout Pappy's 10-year stay, as new acting head coach. He said this appointment also will be placed before the council when it convenes within the next few days.

Without going into detail, Lewis said he was stepping out because "things are in such an impossible mess."

The council recommended his dismissal last January, but Stahr said at that time the university board of governors had decided to keep him on "by the skin of his teeth."

In a rare statewide radio announcement, the university president added, however, that Lewis would be asked to resign unless he did his job "in such a way as to rebuild steadily the confidence in him, of faculty, students, alumni and others, which we believe has been diminishing for some years."

Stahr did not mention Lewis' clashes with council members but emphasized that West Virginia's losing 3-7 record last year was not the reason for dissatisfaction among council members.

Pappy, whose teams had won five Southern Conference championships in compiling a 58-38-2 record, called the probationary conditions set by Stahr "impossible to work under."

Tut Bartzén Is No. 1 at River Oaks

HOUSTON, Tex., April 19 (UPI)—The twenty-sixth annual River Oaks invitational tennis tournament moved into high gear today with defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzén facing the strongest foreign contingent to ever compete in this swank tourney.

Bartzén, a crafty little southpaw from Dallas who plays best on the clay surface used here, is top-seeded. Right behind him are Neale Fraser of Australia, the U. S. singles champion; Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, New York.

Roy Emerson, Fraser's Davis Cup doubles partner, isn't seeded, but he's ranked as the number one dark horse and the pair is seeded first in doubles. Emerson has won three tournaments in the Caribbean circuit.

MacKay, who won this tournament two years ago, is drawing a lot of support because of his straight set victory last Sunday over Bartzén in the finals of the Atlanta Invitational.

In first round matches today, the four top-seeded players go against collegial stars. Bartzén plays Tim Hecker of Lamar Tech, Fraser tackles Harry Parton of the University of Houston. MacKay faces Jim Watson of Pan American College, and Holmberg plays John Sharpe of Pan American.

The tournament actually opened yesterday with non-exempt players, mostly collegians, battling for slots in the 32-berth draw.

Havana Club Will Not Move To Jersey City

MIAMI, Fla., April 19 (UPI)—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, is tired denying the circuit's Havana franchise will be switched to Jersey City, N.J.

"It's a lie," Shaughnessy said when the report popped up again yesterday. "I'm sick and tired of denying . . . denying . . . denying."

Shaughnessy did say, however, that plans have been made to move the franchise if playing in Havana becomes unsafe or inadvisable.

"We have two or three places," Shaughnessy said, but he added that the franchise would remain in Havana unless there were provocative incidents.

Driesell Named Coach.

DAVIDSON, N.C., April 19 (AP)—Charles Driesell will take over as Davidson College's basketball coach in September, succeeding Tom Scott. The Davidson Athletic Council yesterday approved the appointment of Driesell, a former Duke University basketball player and now a successful Virginia High School coach.

Indians 'Shocked' by Border Actions, Nehru Tells Chou

NEW DELHI, April 19 (AP)—Chou En-lai arrived today and was promptly told by Prime Minister Nehru that Red China's border actions "have been a shock to all our people."

"Our relations have been imperiled for the present and future," he told the visiting Red China Premier.

Chou, grim-faced, had voiced hope that the Chinese-Indian border dispute could be settled "in accordance with the principles of coexistence."

Nehru smiled as he made his statement, but his words were tough and sharp.

Chou, one of the most unpopular visitors in recent Indian history, arrived by plane from Rangoon to discuss the 51,000 square miles of disputed territory along the Indian-Tibetan border. An agreement appears unlikely to result from the talks.

Near the presidential palace, where Chou will stay, 70 demonstrators who sought to protest with black flags were locked up for an "imminent breach of the peace."

Nehru headed a handful of cabinet members and other officials to greet Chou at the airport. Security guards were posted all along the route from the airport to the city, but there were virtually no spectators.

President Rajendra Prasad boycotted the arrival ceremony. Chou not being the chief of the Chinese state, protocol did not require Prasad's presence.

Nehru was certain to put up tough resistance to the Chinese leader's claims to the remote territories on the India-Tibet border. Red China now occupies 12,000 square miles, India the rest.

Germ Warfare

doing what they were thinking about.

With reference to biological, or germ warfare, Stubbs said that it is practicable to have dry biologic (germ) agents. With 10 airplanes, each capable of carrying 10,000 pounds, it would be possible to spread enough biological agents to cause at least 30 per cent casualties in the United States.

THE EARLY IDEA of starting up the old plagues as a means of germ warfare has been abandoned. The trick now is to grow new types of virus, natural mutations or mutations brought on artificially by X-rays, ultra-violet light or nuclear radiation, for which no immunity exists.

Dr. Robert J. Goodlow, director of biological research at Fort Dietrich, Md., explained that if a human population were isolated and taken care of for 1000 generations it would be entirely different from what it is today as a result of mutation and natural selection. But this would take 33,000 years.

The generation time of bacteria can be as low as three hours. In four to five months bacteria can evolve to the extent that would take man 33,000 years. This sort of mutation has taken place in the growth of staphylococci, streptococci and gonococci that are resistant to antibiotics.

There are methods besides radiation to transform disease germs. One is to break the virus down into its nucleic acid fraction and its protein fraction and combine these with another virus similarly broken down. A virus crossed in this fashion may have all the disease propagating potentiality it had originally, but the built-up immunity of the population would disappear and it would be susceptible as to an entirely new disease.

THE TESTIMONY indicated that the Soviets "have the ability to wage biological and chemical warfare on a large scale." They are credited with being out of the research and development stage in germ, nerve or gas warfare and in procurement of these agents.

"There may be some debate as to whether or not there is a missile gap," Representative Daniel J. Flood (Dem.), Pennsylvania, remarked, "but there can be no intelligent debate about the fact that there is a shocking and appalling, great, big, wide (chemical, biological and radiological warfare) gap . . . I want to emphasize particularly the biological. We know about his chemical potential. He has in the field with troops and modern hardware operational, well-trained troops, excellent decontamination units in the field in Germany now and in the satellites."

Possibly new chemical or bacterial agents were in Soviet Premier Khrushchev's mind when he told the Supreme Soviet Jan. 14: "The arms being designed and, so to speak, in the portfolios of scientists and designers are incredible arms."

ORDER BARRING PICKETING IN CITY STRIKE DISSOLVED

A restraining order barring picketing at city institutions in the recent work stoppage of municipal employees was dissolved today by agreement of the city counselor and unions involved.

The order was issued by Circuit Judge William H. Killoran on petition by the city, following a hearing March 24. The city contended that the strike of city employees in a wage dispute was against public policy and jeopardized the welfare of citizens. Today the petition was dismissed and the order dissolved.

picion in this political year that a leading committee member can say: "The President wants to go over there to the summit conference and come back with 'peace in our time.' He won't know what he's giving away and maybe he won't even care whether there is any inspection of a control system or not."

This attitude, which finds expression in one degree or another among both Republicans and Democrats on the committee, is all the more surprising in view of the close relation with chairman McCone. In contrast to his predecessor, Lewis Strauss, the quiet, unassuming McCone has built up something almost like an alliance with the so-called watchdog committee.

TO ILLUSTRATE this, committee members tell of what happened when they got word that the President had been advised by the Defense Department that under his inherent constitutional powers he could give nuclear information and nuclear weapons to America's allies. This appeared as an attempt to violate the law specifically denying the President such powers.

In a hastily arranged conference at Albuquerque, N. M., chairman Anderson's home, a letter was drafted to be sent to the Defense Department and to the President pointing out that the law forbids such action. When McCone heard of this, as committee members tell the story, he flew to Albuquerque and volunteered to put a stop to the proposal so that a showdown would be avoided. Members of the committee were deeply grateful for his action.

Those who argue the need to go on testing base it in part on the necessity to perfect "clean" weapons and small nuclear weapons. There is no indication whatsoever that the Russians want themselves develop and use "clean" bombs and thereby avoid in a nuclear war the mass annihilation resulting from fallout. This would seem to be trust on a far greater scale than contemplated in the test agreement.

Perhaps it is impossible to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons. But to ignore the risk of what this means while refusing to take any risk in an agreement is perilously shortsighted.

failing which nothing could in the long run save mankind."

He said he hopes that France, in going to the summit, will have the "direct support of vigorous Canada, so worthy and able, and which she holds so close to her heart."

De Gaulle and his wife arrived by jet plane in the Canadian capital from Paris last night, beginning a 17-day visit to Canada, the United States and French Caribbean territories. The tour is partly social, but both De Gaulle and Diefenbaker stressed the importance of consultations on the world situation.

DE GAULLE described his visit to Canada as a link in "a chain between free peoples" which began with his recent trip to Britain and will be concluded with his talks with President Eisenhower.

The Canadian Prime Minister said De Gaulle's visit "gives expression to the close relationship which has developed between members of the North Atlantic community, and to the ever-ending need for continued cooperation with full consultation among the members of NATO, in matters which affect not only the vital interests of the Western world, but of freedom itself in the world."

Also taking part in the talks are the foreign ministers of the two countries, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Howard Green of Canada; Francis LaCoste, French Ambassador to Canada, and Pierre Dupuy, Canadian Ambassador to France.

DE GAULLE's two private conferences today were expected to cover the range of international problems, with special attention to disarmament and the suspension of nuclear tests, in which Canada has a major interest.

These are the only high-level conversations scheduled for De Gaulle's four-day Canadian visit. He will leave Ottawa tomorrow morning for brief stops in Quebec, Montreal and Toronto before going on to Washington Friday.

De Gaulle spoke briefly at the airport last night after his arrival and later offered a toast at a dinner given by Governor General Georges P. Vanier.

At the airport De Gaulle and Diefenbaker exchanged warm greetings.

De Gaulle called Canada "strong and vigorous." Diefenbaker described the French President as a living legend, "the architect and symbol of a vibrant France."

This is the first visit of the 69-year-old French leader to North America since 1945, when he was leader of the Free French forces.

Mulkey Seeks Fourth Kansas Decathlon Title

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 19 (AP)—Defending Champion Phil Mulkey of Memphis Athletic Club, and Steve Anderson, former Oregon broad jumper, topped a list of 10 decathlon competitors selected Monday for the thirty-fifth Kansas Relays Field this weekend.

Mulkey will be shooting for his fourth relays decathlon title. He set a record of 6544 points two years ago and repeated last year with 6302. He won his first crown in 1956 on 6393, a record at the time, while at Wyoming.

Anderson's best competitive marks add to 8124 points. This, of course, was not logged in a two-day decathlon grind. He has 25-2 in the broad jump, 6-4 in the high jump and 21-7 in the javelin.

The remainder of the 1960 field:

Jim Leonard, Texas Tech; Duane McIntire, Emporia, Kan. State; Marvin Wilson, Ottawa, Kan.; Harvey Greer, Kansas City University; Ron Carter, Coffeyville, Kan. Junior College; Charles Carpenter, Oklahoma Baptist; Kenny Jones, Chanute, Kan. High School, and Win Wolfe, Memphis, Tenn., schoolboy.

They'll be aiming at the Olympic qualifying standard of 6750 points.

Carter was fifth here last year, Greer sixth and Carpenter eighth.

Memphis Hopes to Use Grid Field

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19 (UPI)—Club President Leo Burson asked city officials today to let the homeless Memphis Chicks use Hodges Football Field as a ball park this summer.

Burson told a joint meeting of the city commission and park board there would be "absolutely no expense" to the city.

"We will convert it to a baseball park, then restore the field before we leave," he said.

Burson went into the meeting with high hopes that officials would let the Southern Association club have Hodges as a replacement for Russwood Park, which was destroyed by a $1,000,000 fire Sunday night.

"If we get Hodges Field, we might play our first game against Birmingham May 2," Burson said.

Tonight's scheduled home opener with Chattanooga has been postponed. Other home games with Chattanooga and a series with Atlanta later this week have been transferred to those cities.

Plenty Fighting

STRASBOURG, France, April 19 (UPI)—Just about every one felt like fighting during yesterday's soccer match between England's Birmingham club and Italy's Legnano team.

The players got into a fist fight while Birmingham won, 6-0. After the match, police had to halt a free-for-all in the stands between French and Italian fans.

St. Paul Is Hockey League Playoff Winner

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 19 (UPI)—The St. Paul Saints won the Turner Cup playoffs of the International Hockey League "at night by defeating the Fort Wayne Comets, 3-1. The Saints won, 4 games to 3."

St. Paul took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Fred Brown. The Comets tied it up in the second period on a goal by Len Thornson.

Bryer Deree put St. Paul ahead again, 2-1, with a goal at 8:28 of the second period. Deree's goal took much of the steam out of the Fort Wayne attack.

Elliott Chorley got an insurance goal for the Saints late in the third period.

Kutis Bowlers Take Half-Season Title

Second half-season championship of the Metro Classic Bowling League was won by the Kutis team last night as it took two games of three from the Sonleitners. Joe Singer of Antons had a high three of 710 and a high single of 267; Norman Page of Gipfels also had 267.

SHARP FAZ
FAVORITES LEAD

NEW YORK, April 19 (UPI)—Stocks fell sharply today with the recent favorites suffering the heaviest losses.

The list improved at the outset on buying attributed to the improved outlook for steel production, the report of record March personal income, and the continued flow of good earnings reports, but made a complete turnabout in the afternoon as selling came into the market.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 4.37 points lower at 626.40 at the close. The 20 rails dropped .57 of a point to 142.98 and the 15 utilities slipped 1.0 to 89.62.

Brokers said the failure of the list to rise on increased volume indicated the possibility of an overall general sell-off.

Electronics were the hardest hit as a group. Texas Instruments fell more than 5 points, General Time more than 4, and RCA and Ampex around 2 each. Ford fell about 2 and General Motors, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard all lost around 1. Lukens and Universal Cylco fell about 1 each in an easier steel group. Du Pont dropped more than 2 in the chemicals.

The Associated Press said that of 1216 issues traded, 318 advanced and 663 declined. New highs for the year total 44 and new lows 69.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.0 to 215.10, with the industrials down 1.0, the rails down 1.0 and the utilities unchanged.

Based on the fall in the AP average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell an estimated $1,942,000,000 (b).

New Phosphoric Acid Plant Is Planned at Fairmont City

General Chemical Facility to Make Wet Process Acid, Used Primarily by Fertilizer Manufacturers.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

Plans to build a phosphoric acid plant at the Fairmont City (Ill.) works of Allied Chemical's General Chemical division were announced today by Frank J. French, president. The plant is scheduled to be in production by early 1961.

Capacity of the projected facility will be 50,000 tons a year of wet process acid, which is used primarily by manufacturers of fertilizers. General Chemical now supplies a part of the Midwest region's phosphoric acid requirements from its plant in North Claymont, Del.

The Fairmont City plant now produces sulfuric acid, aluminum sulfate and sodium aluminum sulfate. P. N. Shellenberger, plant manager, said.

Investment in the new plant was not disclosed. About 12 persons will be needed to staff the new plant, he said.

The Frisco Railway Co. has ordered 100 tri-level automobile flat cars, which will make the railroad the nation's first mass mover of automobiles in this type of equipment, Clark Hungerford, chairman and president, announced today.

The 100-car fleet, with capacity for moving 1500 compact or 1200 regular-size automobiles, has been ordered from Pullman-Standard at a cost of $2,500,000. The cars will be equipped with roller bearings and a 10-inch travel cushion underframe, which will reduce damage.

Shareholders of McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co. yesterday approved a restricted stock option plan for key employees. The plan, which was approved by the board of directors, authorized the company to issue 10,000 shares of preferred stock and increased the authorized common stock from 600,000 shares to 750,000 shares at the annual meeting of the company.

In addition, the pre-emptive right to subscribe for any stock issued was eliminated.

Lawrence T. Cummings, John Raeburn Green and Roger S. Heidenheim were re-elected to three-year terms as directors. Other directors continue in office.

Stock options were used by several officers of St. Louis based firms to purchase shares of capital stock in their companies in February, the latest report of the Securities and Exchange Commission says.

Milton Frank, a vice president and director of Brown Shoe Co., purchased 6000 shares of his company's capital stock, making his

GRAIN FUTURES SHOW SPOTTY PRICE RALLY

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—The grain futures market showed some rallying tendency in spots in the early afternoon today after having been slightly weak earlier.

May wheat moved up about a cent and some other contracts posted small plus signs for the first time since the opening.

The support for wheat was credited to buying on flour mill and export accounts but it also appeared to include fairly active restatement of long positions.

Nearly all price changes were within small fractions of previous closes.

The Mail Goes Through

Making good use of his tractor, Fred Gertz adds Iowa mud to the list of obstacles which fail to stay the carrier of mail on his appointed rounds. He switched to the tractor when his automobile bogged down on some of the muddy roads that make up his 55-mile rural carrier route near Eldridge. It takes about three hours longer with the tractor but "it's better than walking." Son Henry is in the wagon.

Rolling Time for the Met

Wristwatch and concerned look lend emphasis to farewells being uttered by Rudolph Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, as traveling time approached in New York yesterday. With Bing are lyric soprano Elizabeth Soederstrom (left) and contralto Belen Amparan, two in the company of 300 which left for Boston and the opening of the Met's spring tour. The company will be on tour for seven weeks and will visit 12 cities, including St. Louis May 17.

Protest In Britain

Peace demonstrators rally in the long shadow of Nelson's column after arriving in London yesterday to end a 54-mile protest march. Police estimated there were 40,000 in the crowd which filed into Trafalgar square after the long walk from Aldermaston, Britain's nuclear weapons research center. Another 30,000 greeted the marchers.

Mishap in Air Demonstration

New Air Force turbo-jet helicopter hovers near ground in demonstration of fire-fighting technique cut short by mishap to the craft at Stead Air Force Base, Nev., yesterday. Demonstration ended when gust of wind caused rotor blade to tilt and clip the stabilizer, part of which stuck to the blade. Purpose of the display was to show how flames from wrecks could be controlled by a combination of foam and downdraft from the helicopter.

Shipboard Launching

Nose of a Polaris missile juts from cloud of steam and smoke covering launching area on research ship off Cape Canaveral, Fla., yesterday. Propelled by compressed air, the missile spurted from its launching tube and arched off into flight when its first stage engine fired. What appeared to be a successful test ended moments later, however, when the second stage failed to function properly on the missile being developed for use on submarines.

Art Buchwald He Wrote the Book But Not the Movie

SOME TIME AGO we wrote a book called "A Gift From the Boys," which we had the good fortune to sell to the movies. At the time, Cary Grant announced he was going to play in it and you can't imagine how happy everyone in the family was, except for the children who were too young to know who Cary Grant was.

ART BUCHWALD

Well, time passed and the other day we met someone from the company, who informed us the book has been made into a picture.

"That's funny," we said. "I don't remember reading anything about 'A Gift From the Boys' being made into a film."

The man laughed and said: "Oh, we're not calling it 'A Gift From the Boys.' We're calling it 'Surprise Package.' 'A Gift From the Boys' sounds too much like 'Suddenly Last Summer.'"

He could see we were visibly disappointed. "But don't worry, everything else has been left intact. All we did was take your novel and put it on the screen."

"How is Grant as a Sicilian gangster?"

"Oh, didn't anyone tell you? Grant's not in it. Yul Brynner is playing the deportee. And we've changed him from a Sicilian to a Greek. Brynner looks more like a Greek than a Sicilian. Frankly, he doesn't look like either. If we really wanted to do it right we should have made it in Mongolia."

"Well," we said. "I guess there is no harm in changing the locale. Who plays the gift from the boys?"

"We threw that idea out the first day. There is no gift from the boys. Miltz Gaynor plays a girl friend of the gangster, but as long as we changed the title there was no sense making her a gift any more. Noel Coward gives a wonderful performance as the king."

"What king?" we asked, startled.

"You know, the king—oh, that's right, you don't know the king. We've added a king to the story. It's terribly funny and saves the picture."

"Is the gangster sent back to the town where he was born?" we asked.

"No, we threw that out the first day."

"Does he organize the fishermen into smuggling cigarettes?" we wanted to know.

"Heavens, no," he said. "We threw that out the first day. We did want to keep the fishing boats, but we couldn't because we threw out the fishermen. You see what we were against."

"It must have been hard," we said sympathetically. "Is the bodyguard still in the picture?"

"We liked him so much we didn't throw him out until the second day. He was a very good character. But you can't use everything in the book."

"How does the kidnapping scene work?" we wanted to know.

He looked puzzled.

"What kidnapping?"

"You remember, when the gangster is kidnapped by Mondello, the bandit, and held for ransom?"

"Oh, yes, I almost forgot about that." He made a gesture with his thumb.

He nodded sadly. "The first hour of the first day."

"Not in this picture," he replied.

"I guess you've made a different story," we said.

"Now, that's not true. There are lots of things from the book in the movie. You know the policeman in your story that has his bicycle stolen by the Mafia?"

"Yes," we said excitedly.

"Well, he's still in the picture, only we changed him and made him the chief of police. But we had to throw out the business about the stolen bicycle."

"And," he continued, "you know the cafe in the square where everyone meets? Well, it's now part of the hotel, but anyone who has read the book will know it's the cafe. Nico March hangs around the cafe in the picture just as he does in the book."

"Wait a minute," we cried. "Who's Nico March?"

"The lead character."

"But my lead character was named Frank Bartlett."

The man seemed to be losing his patience. "You apparently don't know anything about movies. If we had to hold on to every little detail we'd never be able to adapt anything for the screen. You should be grateful your book has been made into a picture by people who loved the story, and only changed things to help it."

We apologized for even questioning him on it. "After all, it's only my first novel," we said tearfully, "and I don't know anything about motion pictures."

"Don't feel too bad," he said, putting his arm around our shoulder. "Even Hemingway doesn't understand why they do the things they do with his books. All writers have a blind spot when it comes to their own work."

'Bridgework Radio'

Dear Ann:

MY HUSBAND'S AUNT lives with us but she has always been pleasant and easy to be with. Last week she almost broke up a dinner party in our home by announcing to one and all that she is intercepting radio messages between Red China and the Russians through her bridgework.

ANN LANDERS

This woman is not a fool. She has a master's degree and has taught school for 15 years. She is active in civic organizations and has headed some big groups in her day.

I'm disturbed because she insists she has some valuable information and wants to go to the FBI with it. Please tell us what to do.

A AND B.

Dear A and B: Urge her to see a doctor. She may have been a community leader in her day but she is sick now and needs professional help.

If you are unable to prevent her from going to the FBI, I assure you her condition will be recognized and you'll be hearing from that organization.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Buy Clothes for Long Wear, Says Designer Broadway Beacon

Herbert Sondheim, Here for Summer Showing, Says Women Write Own Fashion Tickets

By Sylvia Stiles

BUY YOUR CLOTHES with the idea of getting at least two years' wear from them, advises Herbert Sondheim of New York, one of America's "big name" designers.

In St. Louis last week to present his summer collection at the monthly luncheon fashion showing of the Famous-Barr Co. at the Park Plaza Hotel, he said that this is an era when women are buying clothes with the longest possible future wearing life.

Women today are writing their own tickets as to what they want to buy and wear, he said. No designer can tell them what to buy. Instead they tell the designer what they want, and the smart manufacturer makes it of the best quality obtainable.

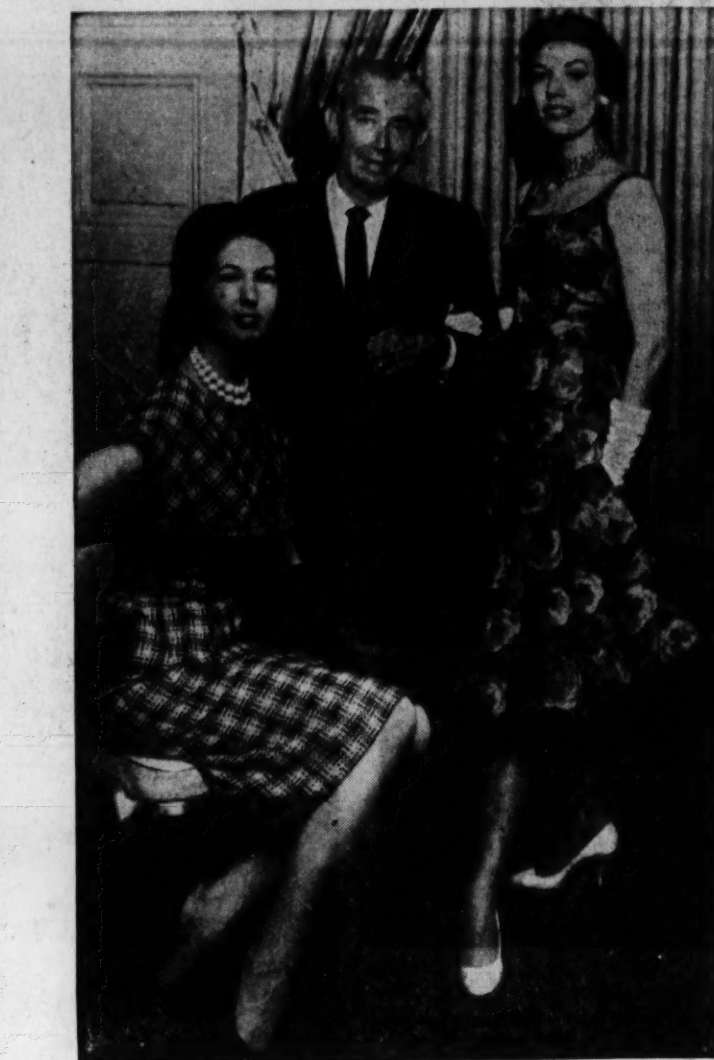

"Quality comes first in the requirements of a successful fashion," Sondheim said. "Women want quality fabric, quality of workmanship and quality of fit. And remember that there is quality at every price level—not just in the most expensive lines."

"As for silhouettes, I am a great believer in variety. There never has been a time when a single silhouette has proved to be becoming to the majority of women. The privilege of selection should be left to the consumer."

Sondheim practices what he preaches by including this variety in his summer collection. His silhouettes for summer range from the slender, reed-like type to full skirts either flared or pleated for hemline fullness. Variety is seen, too, in the many interpretations of the jacket mode and in the use of numerous fabrics.

Dacron and cotton materials are used extensively in the creation of many-purpose ensembles. Plaids and checked patterns share attention with plain colors. Moynashel linen is attractive for bright-colored dresses which have their own jackets. Chiffon and organza are highlighted for evening in short, full-skirted dresses. Every fashion is one that can be worn "after five" and many, because of their double-duty features, can be worn throughout the day and evening.

Newest looking ideas to be presented include a "shoulderette" type of jacket for wear over sleeveless dresses, and a revolutionary silhouette. The "shoulderette" is very brief as to length and sleeves but serves as a pretty and serviceable cover-up for summer months. As for the new silhouette, it is a form of the princess with skirt fullness gored for graduated petal-like shaping from the waistline.

Sondheim is a member of the executive committee of the New York Couture Group, Inc. He was one of the organizers of the semi-annual New York press weeks at which fashion writers from many cities gather to see capsule collections. He regards this presentation as valuable in promoting good taste in dress and assisting the manufacturers to get consumer reaction to style. An enthusiastic booster for American fashion, Sondheim readily admits, however, that a Paris label has a definite appeal to many women. He showed one Paris dress—a Jacques Griffe model—which he purchased while attending the spring collections in February.

Job Talks

by KAY WILLIAMS

Kay Williams Personnel
14th Floor, Paul Brown Bldg.

THE BIGGEST PUZZLE IN THE WORKING WORLD IS REGARDING THE BUSINESS OF "AGE." I HAVE HEARD MORE ODD MIS-UNDERSTANDINGS ABOUT AGE PREJUDICE THAN IS BELIEVABLE. MEN AND WOMEN WHO SEEM TO HAVE JUDGEMENT IN EVERY OTHER WAY HAVE SOME PECULIAR IDEA REGARDING THEIR UNAVOIDABLE STATE! INvariably, people looking for work who have passed their 35th birthday will ask "CAN YOU PLACE ANY ONE OF MY AGE?" — ITS THE USUAL OPENING QUESTION IN OUR OFFICE! NOW LET'S SETTLE IT AS BEST WE CAN IN SHORT SPACE BY GENERALIZING ON THE REAL TRUTH ABOUT AGE AND THE JOB SEEKER.

...1. If a person has been working steadily at the same work for which he is looking, has kept himself proficient and in good health, AGE IS NOT a barrier. We merely find an employer who prefers experience instead of a trainee.

...2. If a person has been working for a number of years and decides to try to change fields, then in most cases he will find job-seeking a problem. To sum it up, we find that whether a person is 30 or only 18, finding a good job depends on his skills, attitudes and stability! Some employers like the experienced, some prefer to train. At our agency, we take it as a part of our work to know the difference and refer accordingly.

But remember—if you are rusty, and out of touch, or are trying to change into a strange field, and it's tough to find work—don't you dare blame it on AGE. Talk with your next Tuesday right here?

Tarzan Now Articulate Muscle Man

By Norman Badderly

NAIROBI, Kenya,

April 19 (AP).

AN ARROW sped through the humid air and found its mark in the heart of the young man standing in the papyrus-fringed river.

The man sank into the water, a colorful red stain spreading from his wound. He sat up. "Hurry up," he called. "It's cold in here."

Solar Film Productions Ltd. was at work at Thika, 25 miles north of Nairobi, on "Tarzan the Magnificent," second of a series of what Hollywood producer Sy Weintraub calls his new concept Tarzan movies.

Once again Kenya has been chosen as the ideal location for Tarzan's adventures. But brawny ex-cowboy Gordon Scott, playing Tarzan for the fourth time, emerges as a very different character from the jungle boy who first enthralled junior movie fans in the silent screen days.

Tarzan the celluloid ape man, beloved the world over, has grown up. No longer the inarticulate beefcake of the jungle, he has become a modern, sophisticated muscle man. He can talk—whole sentences. He can think—fast.

THIS IS BECAUSE Weintraub believes Tarzan must keep abreast of the times. In other words, what delighted children of the twenties won't do for the second half of the century.

"I'm giving them a Tarzan they can believe in," he says.

"Kids of today are a lot brighter than they used to be. They want action and adventure, so I'm emphasizing the action of the story rather than the simple story line. Tarzan the ape man who used to grunt and groan is now articulate and a lot more exciting."

In the excitement Tarzan has lost his old mate, Jane, and his young son who, it appears, tended to curtail his jungle freedom. Tarzan has been turned into a bachelor again.

"Previously he was going to work in the jungle and coming home again just like a suburban city worker," Weintraub explains. "A bachelor figure is a lot more exciting than a man who comes swinging home through the jungle every night to tell his little woman what's been happening during the day."

GONE, too, is the famous jungle cry with which Tarzan of yore summoned his animal friends to his aid. Gone, except for one lone, nostalgic cry at the end of the picture, when the goodies have triumphed and Tarzan swings off back into the forest.

Part of the Weintraub policy is to back Tarzan up with "actors of distinction." Last year

Anthony Quayle was in it. This year American Shakespearean Actor John Carradine, who has made more than 300 films, has agreed to act in a movie for the first time outside the United States.

Betta St. John is one of two women who have been allowed to encroach on Tarzan's freedom. She makes her exit from "Tarzan the Magnificent" on being eaten by a lioness.

Although fairly tame, the lioness was responsible for the following notice appearing on the call sheet:

"If the lioness approaches any member of the unit, will they either remain still or step toward her—do not retreat."

Although the movie character has changed, the physical Tarzan hasn't suffered much from re-creation. At 6 foot 3, with 50-inch chest and 18½-inch biceps, Scott is the biggest Tarzan ever.

He claims to take his part seriously, though he admits he would hate to be Tarzan in real life. "It's no fun running around the jungle all day with thorns sticking in your feet," he says.

Clarissa Start Her Own Tale Of Two Cities

"YOU'RE FROM ST. LOUIS?" asked a woman at a dinner party in Philadelphia. "That's where they're doing such wonderful things about improving the midtown area. I wish we could do more of that here."

great many women also wrote to me but they must have copied their letters from one another because they all said, "You're so right."

Just because one criticizes his own city does not mean one is unaware of the good points. We applaud the efforts of Downtown in St. Louis, Inc., and its members—the stores which have remained in their downtown locations and remodeled, the businesses which have beautified the streets with trees and hedges and ivy and rows of white tulips.

The proposed mall from the riverfront arch to Twelfth boulevard would be a tremendous improvement and the new Plaza apartments already are. Despite the fun we poked at them in the gridiron ("You're close to everything downtown except perhaps a friend—") the tour I took during opening week made me downright envious of the career girls, the young marrieds and the retired couples who will find it practical to live there.

In my two-day visit to Philadelphia I observed some things I wish we might copy. I like the way Philadelphia has preserved and enhanced many historic buildings and the way Philadelphians have restored so many old houses. Many old buildings are monstrosities but many of those razed here had dignity and charm and livable possibilities.

I like Philadelphia's smart shopping and residential section around Rittenhouse Square, in the center of which is the historic Church of the Holy Trinity. This is an area comparable in distance from downtown to the Plaza apartment district and the vicinity just westward. To date we have one fashion establishment, the decorative House of Radaelli. It would be wonderful to have arcades of shops, a long row of them similar to Chicago's near North Side, and our own Maryland Avenue.

And just as I was leaving Philadelphia I observed something else worthy of emulation. It was the sign on their city clean-up department trucks, a discreet and delicate reminder: "You are the citizen of no mean city. Litter not its streets."

How wonderful if we could follow this suggestion, especially in our downtown area. Then we would truly have occasion for civic pride.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D. Sleepwalking

"Dear Dr. Molner: PLEASE DISCUSS TALKING OR WALKING in one's sleep, the causes, etc. I refer to an adult who sometimes screams in his sleep or walks around the room.—E.L."

Sleepwalking more often takes place in childhood or adolescence but it can, as you well know, extend to adulthood.

Sleepwalking is not a disease; it is a symptom. A symptom of something, but I do not mean a symptom of disease. I should say it might well be regarded as we regard dreams, except that sleepwalking is a more intense manifestation. It may well be a means of expressing some inner conflict, and this is borne out by patients who, under questioning, later connect the first episode of sleepwalking to some emotional upset in childhood.

I wish I knew of some simple formula for determining just what inner conflict may be at work, but I don't. This gets into the intricate workings of the mind. If you, or the victim of the sleepwalking, can manage to associate it with some problem that bothers him, then solving the problem, or at least facing up to the presence of it, may well permit him to sleep more restfully. The problem which the patient, in his waking hours, keeps trying to push out of the way, is apt to bob to the surface after he is asleep.

Depending on the amount of distress caused by the sleepwalking, it may be a good idea to discuss this with a psychiatrist. On the other hand, sometimes as small a thing as changing the sleeping arrangements may help—moving the sleepwalker to a different room.

Sleepwalkers, by the way, sometimes are amazingly precise in their actions. They at times get dressed, climb or descend stairs, open and close doors—all while "asleep" and have no memory of it afterward. They even respond to questions at times, although the answers may not seem to make much logic. In general sleepwalkers avoid hurting themselves, and avoid dangerous maneuvers.

Sometimes a facial expression, or action may give a clue to whatever problem is buried in the sleepwalker's mind. Or he may go prowling after some particular object, which is significant. He may be hunting for protection, trying to run away from punishment, or some such thing.

Still another possibility is that the individual may be rather meek or docile while awake, but overcompensate for this by yelling or moving about while in some sort of "dream state."

Altogether, sleepwalking is a rather complex sort of thing to analyze, isn't it? But close attention may give you a clue that will lead to a solution.

"Dear Dr. Molner: WHEN I GET CRAMPS in my foot I can't move. The pain is up under the arch and between the big toe and the next one. My toes stiffen and bend down like they are out of joint. It is usually my right foot. What causes this? J.L."

This does not follow the pattern of common "foot cramps." When the trouble is only in one foot, some defect in the arch may be suspected. Cramps can result from muscle spasm, a pinched nerve, or pinched blood vessel. Have the foot examined.

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in the booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to Dr. Molner, in care of the Post-Dispatch, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Charlotte's Spider Unveils Her Masterpiece

By E. B. White

Illustrations by Garth Williams

NINTH INSTALLMENT

NEXT MORNING when the first light came into the sky and the sparrows stirred in the trees, when the cows rattled their chains and the rooster crowed and the early automobiles went whispering along the road, Wilbur awoke and looked for Charlotte. He saw her up overhead in a corner near the back of his pen. She was very quiet. Her eight legs were spread wide. She seemed to have shrunk during the night. Next to her, attached to the ceiling, Wilbur saw a curious object. It was a sort of sac, or cocoon. It was peach-colored and looked as though it were made of cotton candy.

"Are you awake, Charlotte?" he said softly.

"Yes," came the answer.

"What is that nifty little thing? Did you make it?"

"I did indeed," replied Charlotte in a weak voice.

"Is it a plaything?"

"Playing? I should say not. It is my egg sac, my magnum opus."

"I don't know what a magnum opus is," said Wilbur.

"That's Latin," explained

Templeton

Charlotte. "It means 'great work.' This egg sac is my great work—the finest thing I have ever made."

"What's inside it?" asked Wilbur.

"Eggs?"

"Five hundred and fourteen of them," she replied.

"Five hundred and fourteen?" said Wilbur. "You're kidding."

"No, I'm not. I counted them. I got started counting, so I kept on—just to keep my mind occupied."

"It's a perfectly beautiful egg sac," said Wilbur, feeling as happy as though he had constructed it himself.

"Yes, it is pretty," replied Charlotte, patting the sac with her two front legs. "Anyway, I can guarantee that it is strong. It's made out of the toughest material I have. It is also waterproof. The eggs are inside and will be warm and dry."

"Charlotte," said Wilbur dreamily, "are you really going to have 514 children?"

"If nothing happens, yes," she said. "Of course, they won't show up till next spring." Wilbur noticed that Charlotte's voice sounded sad.

"What makes you sound so down-hearted? I should think you'd be terribly happy about this."

"Oh, don't pay any attention to me," said Charlotte. "I just don't have much pep any more. I guess I feel sad because I won't ever see my children."

"What do you mean you won't see your children? Of course, you will. We'll all see them. It's going to be simply wonderful next spring in the barn cellar with 514 baby spiders running around all over the place. And the geese will have a new set of goslings, and the sheep will have their new lambs..."

"Maybe," said Charlotte quietly. "However, I have a feeling I'm not going to see the results of last night's efforts. I don't feel good at all. I think I'm languishing, to tell you the truth."

"What does 'languishing' mean?"

"It means I'm slowing up, feeling my age. I'm not young any more, Wilbur. But I don't want you to worry about me. This is your big day today. Look at my web—doesn't it show up well with the dew on it?"

Charlotte's web never looked more beautiful than it looked this morning. Each strand held dozens of bright drops of early morning dew. The light from the east struck it and made it all plain and clear. It was a perfect piece of designing and building. In another hour or two, a steady stream of people would pass by, admiring it, and reading it, and looking at Wilbur, and marveling at the miracle.

As Wilbur was studying the web, a pair of whiskers and a sharp face appeared. Slowly Templeton dragged himself across the pen and threw himself down in a corner.

"I'm back," he said in a husky voice. "What a night!"

The rat was swollen to twice his normal size. His stomach was as big around as a jelly jar.

"What a night!" he repeated, hoarsely. "What feasting and carousing! A real gorge! I must have eaten the remains of 30 lunches. Never have I seen such leavings, and everything well-ripened and seasoned with the passage of time and the heat of the day. Oh, it was rich, my friends, rich!"

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said Charlotte in disgust. "It would serve you right if you had an acute attack of indigestion."

"Don't worry about my stomach," snarled Templeton. "It can handle anything. And by the way, I've got some bad news. As I came past that pig next door—the one that calls himself Uncle—I noticed a blue tag on the front of his pen. That means he has won first prize. I guess you've licked Wilbur. You might as well relax—nobody is going to hang any medal on you. Furthermore, I wouldn't be surprised if Zuckerman changes his mind about you. Wait till he gets hankering for some fresh pork and smoked ham and crisp bacon! He'll take the knife to you, my boy."

"Be still, Templeton!" said Charlotte. "You're too stuffed and bloated to know what you're saying. Don't pay any attention to him, Wilbur!"

Wilbur tried not to think about what the rat had just said. He decided to change the subject.

"Templeton," said Wilbur, "if you weren't so dopey, you would have noticed that Charlotte has made an egg sac. She is going to become a mother. For your information, there are 514 eggs in that peachy little sac."

"Is this true?" asked the rat, eyeing the sac suspiciously.

"Yes, it's true," sighed Charlotte.

"Congratulations!" murmured Templeton. "This has been a night!" He closed his eyes, pulled some straw over himself, and dropped off into a deep sleep. Wilbur and Charlotte were glad to be rid of him for a while.

At 9 o'clock, Mr. Arable's truck rolled into the Fair Grounds and came to stop at Wilbur's pen. Everybody climbed out.

"Look!" cried Fern. "Look at Charlotte's web! Look what it says!"

The grownups and the children joined hands and stood there, studying the new sign.

"Humble," said Mr. Zuckerman. "Now isn't that just the word for Wilbur!"

Everyone rejoiced to find that the miracle of the web had been repeated. Wilbur gazed up lovingly into their faces. He looked very humble and very grateful. Fern winked at Charlotte. Lurvy soon got busy. He poured a bucket of warm slops into the trough, and while Wilbur ate his breakfast Lurvy scratched him gently with a smooth stick.

"Wait a minute!" cried Avery. "Look at this!" He pointed to the blue tag on Uncle's pen. "This pig has won first prize already."

The Zuckermans and the Arabes stared at the tag. Mrs. Zuckerman began to cry. Nobody said a word. They just stared at the tag. Then they stared at Uncle. Then they stared at the tag again.

"Can I have some money?" asked Fern. "I want to go out on the midway."

"You stay right where you are!" said her mother. Tears came to Fern's eyes.

"What's everybody crying about?" asked Mr. Zuckerman.

"Hurray! Wilbur won a prize."

"Let's get busy! Edith, bring the buttermilk!"

Mrs. Zuckerman wiped her eyes with her handkerchief. She went out to the truck and came back with a gallon jar of buttermilk.

"Bath time!" said Zuckerman, cheerfully. He and Mrs. Zuckerman and Avery climbed into Wilbur's pen. Avery slowly poured buttermilk on Wilbur's head and back, and as it trickled down his sides and cheeks, Mr. and Mrs. Zuckerman rubbed it into his hair and skin. Passersby stopped to watch. Pretty soon quite a crowd had gathered. Wilbur grew beautifully white and smooth. The morning sun shone through his pink ears.

"He isn't as big as that pig next door," remarked one bystander, "but he's cleaner. That's what I like."

"Attention, please!" it said. "Will Mr. Homer Zuckerman bring his famous pig to the judges' booth in front of the grandstand. A special award will be made there in 20 minutes. Everyone is invited to attend. Crate your pig, please, Mr. Zuckerman and report to the judges' booth promptly!"

For a moment after this announcement, the Arabes and the Zuckermans were unable to speak or move. Then Avery picked up a handful of straw and threw it high in the air and gave a loud yell. The straw fluttered down like confetti into Fern's hair. Mr. Zuckerman hugged Mrs. Zuckerman. Mr. Arable kissed Mrs. Arable. Avery kissed Wilbur. Lurvy shook hands with everybody. Fern hugged her mother. Avery hugged Mrs. Zuckerman.

Up overhead, in the shadows of the ceiling, Charlotte crouched unseen her front legs encircling her egg sac. She felt weary and old, but she was sure at last that she had saved Wilbur's life, and she felt peaceful and contented.

"We have no time to lose!" shouted Mr. Zuckerman. "Lurvy, help with the crate!"

"Can I have some money?" asked Fern.

"You wait!" said Mrs. Arable. "Can't you see everybody is busy?"

"Put that empty buttermilk jar into the truck!" commanded Mr. Arable. Avery grabbed the jar and rushed to the truck.

"Does my hair look all right?" asked Mrs. Zuckerman.

"Looks fine," snapped Mr. Zuckerman, as he and Lurvy set the crate down in front of Wilbur.

"You didn't even look at my hair!" said Mrs. Zuckerman.

"You're all right, Edith," said Mr. Arable. "Just keep calm."

Templeton, asleep in the straw, heard the commotion and awoke. He didn't know exactly what was going on, but when he saw the men shoving Wilbur into the crate he made up his mind to go along. He watched his chance and when no one was looking he crept into the crate and buried himself in the straw at the bottom.

"All ready, boys!" cried Mr. Zuckerman. "Let's go!" He and Mr. Arable and Lurvy and Avery grabbed the crate and boosted it over the side of the pen and up into the truck. Fern jumped aboard and sat on top of the crate. She still had straw in her hair and looked very pretty and excited. Mr. Arable started the motor. Everyone climbed in, and off they drove to the judges' booth in front of the grandstand.

The bidding:

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

IF YOU CAN'T make a contract legitimately, it's not a bad idea to try to steal it. This may require the kind of co-operation of your opponents, but they will sometimes fall unwittingly into your scheme of things.

South got to three no trump on the optimistic bidding shown. Probably, East should have bid a spade over North's heart call, and that would have changed the end result considerably. But he didn't.

West decided to lead the queen of diamonds and South could see immediately that he was playing an impossible contract. Since West had passed the opening club bid, it was clear that East had both the ace of spades and king of hearts, among other things.

Nine tricks were out of the question by regular play, even though East was granted the king of clubs. On the surface there appeared to be only seven tricks, counting a successful club finesse.

But South, undaunted, went out to make the hand. On the queen of diamonds he played the eight from his hand, hoping that West would read East's forced play of the seven as a signal to come on. Of course, South was running the risk that West would shift to a spade, but he was willing to take this chance.

West was accommodating and continued with a low diamond. The 10 in dummy held and South was now well on the way to making his contract. The nine of clubs was led and finessed, and the queen continuation gave declarer four club tricks. South then cashed the A-K of diamonds.

In the meantime, East had had to make three discards on the diamonds. He had thrown two spades and a heart and was left with the A-Q of spades and K-J-9 of hearts.

South now led a heart to the ace and a low heart back. East was able to cash the K-J, but was forced to lead a spade from the A-Q into dummy's king, presenting declarer with his ninth trick.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Husband Is Ambitious—for Her

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE BEEN MARRIED 10 years and have no children. I have worked for nine years. My husband has a panel truck which he drives to make a living. His earnings are low and mine are about the same, so you see we have little to waste.

Now he wants me to go to night school and take up a trade, so that I can get a better job. He doesn't say anything about improving himself. In fact he doesn't work full time but lies in front of the television set and then says the trucking business is slow.

My home is shabby and I am ashamed to invite anybody into it. I just don't know what to do any more. I have lost all love and respect for him. I can't respect a man who expects his wife to support him.

It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks and after 10 years of being married to a poor provider it is going to be difficult to make a fresh start. I'd suggest that you talk the situation over with him calmly and firmly and then make out a budget. Make him responsible for the lion's share of the expenses and if he doesn't meet them, or at least try to take care of them, start being positively stingy with your own money. Put a dollar or two away in the bank when you can give yourself a small sense of security and make it plain to him that you no longer consider it a privilege to go to work while he lazes around in front of the television set. There might come a few evenings when there's nothing in the house for supper except a bowl of soup and a heel of bread. An empty stomach has spurred many a lazy bone into action.

Dear Martha:

IN ANSWER TO "Broken Hearted Grandmother": Why do you have to give up your three grandchildren because you lost your daughter? You should love this young man as your own son and go on doing for your grandchildren just the same as if your daughter were there.

I suggest you keep the children over the weekend and let the young folks go out and dance.

Children just love to "come to grandma's." Mine say, "You do everything the grandmother way." It's the sweetest compliment I ever want to hear.

A PROUD GRANDMOTHER.

IN ANSWER TO "Coffee Flopper" and "Coffee Hound": Maybe your palate perks up only for a cup of coffee with real authority. Since you both have new percolators, experiment a little. Try adding two spoons of coffee "for the pot" instead of the usual one you've been adding to the amounts used for certain numbers of cups.

Mother's Day occurs this year on May 8. A mother-daughter party is an appropriate way to mark the event. Write today for Martha Carr's free suggestions for a very special but easy-to-give Mother's Day party. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Ideal Living---Q. & A.

PLEASE SUGGEST colors for the unpainted furniture in my basement recreation room. Walls have mahogany paneling, fireplace and bar are Tennessee sandstone. Please advise color for curtains and floor covering.

Why not let yourself go with the really wild color which would be out of place in a more formal room? Have a subdued floor of neutral beige which will look well with the paneling, but on furniture you might have lime green with seat cushions of hot orange and shocking pink. The curtains could be a print of pinks and oranges on white ground.

I AM HAVING a problem with the decoration of my bedroom which is not too large. Furniture is black trimmed in gold, woodwork is white and floor is oak. I would like to paint three walls a light lavender and paper the fourth a contrasting color (I prefer paper to paint), would this be a good idea? I also want valances at the ceiling with ceiling to floor draperies. Do you approve?

The long curtains are a good idea, their height will make the ceiling seem higher, but about the contrasting walls, I am dubious. Since the room is not large, you should try to create an illusion of greater space. This breaking up of the walls will do the opposite. If you like paper, why not paper all four walls in a delicate floral or narrow stripes of lavender on white. Curtains, rug and ruffle could be white and bedspread pale lavender.

MY BATHROOM needs new floor tile and accessories to brighten it. Fixtures are very pale pink, wall tile and wall above tile are deep rose. Please suggest floor color and color for shower and window curtains.

Pink is a very flattering color, why not stick with it? Have floor in pale pink, shower and window curtains white with a print of pink roses. You might eventually plan to paint wall above tile the same pale pink.

Try and Stop Me

ALEXANDER DUMAS, author of "The Three Musketeers" and "The Count of Monte Cristo," wrote and published 1200 full-length books in 40 years. He once turned out 60 novels in 12 months. Of course, he had a corps of ghost writers and put the production of books on an assembly-line basis—but the plots were his own. One day he ran into his son (the author of "Camille") and asked, "Have you read my new novel yet?" "No," said the son. "Have you?"

Dumas dissipated a great fortune by unbridled extravagance. On his deathbed in 1870, he wryly remarked, "I came to Paris with 20 francs. That is exactly the sum with which I die."

WAITERS AT THE DINER outside the Laramie, Wyo., airport still talk about the customer who ordered a cup of coffee, then poured pepper, salt and a dash of catsup into it. "Hey," he remonstrated, "this coffee tastes terrible."

"What did you expect?" asked the waiter. "There's not much else in that cup besides pepper, salt and catsup."

"Maybe you're right," allowed the customer. "Pass the mustard."

RICHARD ARMOUR, author of "Writing Light Verse," came back from a fitting at his tailor's, was moved to dash off the following lines:

One mirror does not constitute a vital threat to me, But when I'm trying on a suit and see myself in three, I get a sudden full-length view of profile and of rear— A sight I'm unaccustomed to and which I always fear.

A YOUNG oil company executive, stationed in Saudi Arabia, writes that the liquor in those parts tastes exactly like varnish. In fact, after just one drink the other day, he earned a disappointing look from the head of the refinery and the accusation, "Young man, you are under the influence of lacquer."

Triumph at Problem School

By Jack V. Fox

NEW YORK, April 19 (UPI)—ONE DAY last week every one of the 180 boys in Public School 622 had on a white shirt. It was the biggest thrill for Principal Irving Boroff in a quarter century in education.

Against the background of past events, it was a triumph of major proportions for—in Boroff's own words—these are the toughest boys in New York City outside jail. And they wore the white shirts not because they had to, but because they wanted to.

Two years ago this spring discipline collapsed in a number of city high schools.

A principal leaped off a school roof to his death. Girls were molested, teachers assaulted, smaller boys afraid to appear, classrooms a daily scene of bedlam. It was the acme of the "Blackboard Jungle."

Superintendent William Jansen ordered mass expulsion of troublemakers. Scores of boys and girls were ejected from high school.

That drastic action created the untenable situation of having the suspended students roving the streets, with their very idleness pushing them into crime.

The city set up three high schools, two for boys and one for girls, specifically for the "rotten apples." They were numbered in the 600s as a designation for problem schools. No. 622 is located in a few blocks from Madison Square Garden.

Two years after their creation, it is possible to report they have been a smashing success. "Oh, we're not kidding ourselves," Boroff says. "We know we are sitting on a powder keg that could go off at any time. But you would have to have seen these boys when they came here two years ago to appreciate the transformation."

Boroff escorted this reporter through the classrooms and workshops of the old school building. There are less than 15 students in each class. About 65 per cent of the 180 boys are Negroes.

They stay in the same classroom for four hours each day.

with the same teacher, thus reducing the chance of clashes in corridors between classes. They have one or more periods a day in the gymnasium and the automotive and other workshops.

Corporal punishment is forbidden in the school but the teachers brook no nonsense whatsoever. George Goggin is a retired cavalry major. Towering Marshall Riddick, a former social worker in penal institutions, is a judo expert.

"The entire authority rests with the teacher," Boroff explains. "They don't send a boy to the principal or call in the parents. They deal with the boy right in the classroom. Most of these kids always thought the teacher was 'out to get them.' They have discovered our teachers are the best friends they have."

It takes a remarkable teacher to do the job. One man of six feet three inches and robust physique gave up within a week. "He didn't have it inside," Boroff says calmly.

The goal, he says, is to make the boys like school and 622 has succeeded to the extent it has been able to send 42 of its students back to regular high schools where every single one has fitted himself into the student body.

Not a single boy has been expelled from 622, he adds, although he admits candidly that some have been lost to reformatories for crimes committed outside the building.

Assistant Principal Charles Citrano remarks sadly that this is the unhappiest part of the whole picture.

"We have these boys five or six hours a day," he says. "We teach them that there are other aspects and satisfactions in life obtainable without violence. But then they go home to neighborhoods and broken families that—well, what can you do?"

Why has the experiment worked so well? Boroff and Citrano are blunt. "These kids are tough and they can be mean," Citrano says. "But they are among their peers. There are no timid kids to harass and terrorize. But the main thing is that they have received kindness with firmness here and it has worked."

Relationship between teachers and students is remarkable. There is a relaxed atmosphere in the classrooms. One big success was a recent assembly when the teachers demonstrated their hobbies—fishing, bicycling, motorboats, judo.

These are no naive do-gooders. All but a few selected boys are kept away from one workshop where sharp tools convertible to weapons could be stolen.

After school, a teacher escorts groups of students to the subway stations, sees that they get on trains and rides a few stations with them so they will not be loitering around the school after hours and causing trouble in the neighborhood. Their transportation is paid for, as is lunch which keeps them inside the building at noon.

"When they came here," Boroff says, "you should have seen the clothes—combat boots, black leather jackets, leather caps."

"We suggested that assembly day was a day when everyone should look his best. No one told them they had to wear a white shirt but more and more began doing so. It got so the boys themselves criticized those who didn't. And last week every single one had on a white shirt. "You just can't understand what it meant."

SOMETIMES a name gives the wrong idea of an object, and this is true of certain birds. I am thinking of the killdeer.

Never, so far as known, has any deer been hurt by these birds. Their name arose from notes which they utter. They cry out "kill-deer, kill-deer" or "kill-dee, kill-dee."

Killdeers are rather small birds. Their bodies are about equal in size to those of robins, but their legs are longer.

fly southward for the winter, often to the West Indies or Central America.

On a summer day, years ago, I saw a killdeer for the first time while I was camping within easy range of Lake Superior. I was strolling through an open space when I saw a bird running before me, uttering "kill-deer" cries. The "r" sound is left out of the cry at times, but it seemed plain enough to me that day. In a few seconds the bird stopped running, but it went farther along as I approached.

The nests of killdeers are shallow hollows in the ground. Sometimes they are lined with pebbles or dry grass. Four spotted eggs are placed inside.

THE PARENTS have an extreme desire to protect their young. When a human being walks near, one parent is almost sure to run ahead of him, trying to draw him away from the nest. In addition to uttering cries of alarm, the adult bird may pretend to be lame. Limping along, with one wing dragging on the ground, it goes farther and farther from the precious little ones.
